

Former State Employees Lose Court Battle To Regain Jobs

Order of Judge Hoppmann Is Reversed in Decision

BACKS NEW LAW

Rules Legislature Has Power to Change Civil Service Act

Madison—(P)—Fifty-nine former state employees discharged in a recent reorganization of the department of taxation lost their hopes for reinstatement today when the supreme court ruled unanimously the dismissals were legal.

The court reversed an order of Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann refusing to quash a writ of mandamus against Tax Commissioner Elmer E. Barlow. The writ had been obtained in a test case by nine employees seeking to get their jobs back.

Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry wrote the final decision, disposing of the employees' contention that their civil service rights had been violated.

A. J. Bieberstein, Madison, counsel for the plaintiffs, claimed that under the civil service law the discharged workers automatically were placed on a reinstatement list and had obtained a status which could not be taken away by whim of the legislature or a department head.

"Rights under the civil service law are conferred by an act of the legislature," the supreme court said in discussing the tax department reorganization act. "What the legislature may give it may take away."

"This court has nothing whatever to say with respect to the policy of the law. All questions of public policy are primarily for the legislature as this court has held many times. In this country there is no vested or contract right for an office."

The reorganization measure gave Barlow authority to reduce personnel and select his staff from employees of the old tax commission or from eligible civil service lists compiled by examinations.

Most of the discharges resulted from a decrease in the number of outlying divisional offices of the department.

Law Not Retroactive

The court affirmed a lower court decision that the 1939 law known as the Bolens bill, permitting deduction of federal estate taxes before computing state inheritance taxes, was not retroactive.

The losing appellants were heirs of the late Annie Louise Benjamin of Milwaukee, who died March 6, 1938, but whose estate was not finally settled until December, 1939. The Bolens law became effective July 3, 1939. The heirs sought to deduct $48,848.91 of federal taxes paid on an estate of $2,235,464.

In a similar case the court denied the Commercial Credit company, of Green Bay, the right to recover a car confiscated as a result of a game law violation in 1938. The company financed the automobile on the installment plan for David Trzinski, of Wausau.

The supreme court said it was not until 1939 that the legislature provided for repayment of balances due through mortgages or sales contracts on confiscated vehicles.

The court ruled in favor of the state Y.M.C.A. when it found the association did not have to pay medical expenses under the workmen's compensation act to Louis Kregal, counselor at the state camp at Boulder Junction, who was injured when hit by a tennis ball.

The court may hear arguments on the constitutionality of the fair trades practice law June 18. Chief Justice Rosenberry indicated today. Although he did not specify whether the court would review the measure—setting up standards for shoe rebuilders, barbers, beauticians, and cleaners and dyers—on briefs or oral arguments, the chief justice asked attorneys whether they would be able to prepare their material by that time.

Roosevelt Urges Funds to Start 68 Naval Vessels

Asks $1,277,741,170 for United States Army and Navy

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for funds to start 68 new naval vessels in submitting a defense request for $1,277,741,170 for both the army and navy. The executive said last week he would ask for "over a billion."

The vessels for which Mr. Roosevelt asked initial construction funds were three aircraft carriers, 13 cruisers, 22 submarines and 30 destroyers.

Another large item in the request included $180,889,395 cash and $109,259,597 contract authority for army airplanes.

The requests laid down by Mr. Roosevelt today placed the nation's regular and emergency defense bill, as projected in various appropriations measures pending before congress, at $4,600,000,000.

The president's main previous recommendations were for $1,823,000,000 in regular and emergency funds for the army and $1,473,000,000 in regular and emergency naval appropriations.

New Naval Planes

The navy would be provided with $22,885,000 for new airplanes and equipment under the president's new proposal.

The request included $103,800,000 for improvement of naval shore stations, including establishment of a far-flung airbase system.

A cash fund of $2,900,000 for army flying fields also was proposed.

The cash request for starting work on the new naval vessels was $144,000,000, and $78,400,000 was proposed for armor, guns and ammunition for new vessels, while $63,028,370 cash and $28,650,000 contract authority was asked for ordnance, which covers such items as guns and torpedoes.

Commons Told Britain Will Never Yield

Ready to Continue War Alone, if Necessary, Churchill Says

LOOKS TO EMPIRE

Sees Possibility of Overseas Possessions Carrying on Struggle

London—(P)—An air ministry communique tonight said that Royal Air Force heavy bombers had attacked German troops advancing into Dunkerque and German batteries shelling the port last night.

In Germany, it said, refineries, oil tanks, supply depots and freight yards in the Ruhr valley, in Rhenish Prussia and in the neighborhood of Frankfurt were among the military objectives attacked.

German air bases were attacked also in northwest Germany and Holland, it said.

London—(P)—Prime Minister Churchill, speaking in commons today, said Britain will carry this war to victory "if necessary for years—'if necessary alone,' despite the 'colossal' defeat in Flanders."

"We shall go on to the end," the prime minister said. "We shall fight in France. We shall fight on the seas and oceans. We shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air."

"We shall defend our island whatever the cost may be. We shall fight on the beaches. We shall fight on the landing grounds. We shall fight in the fields and streets and in the hills."

"We shall never surrender and even if, which I do not for a moment believe, this island or even a part of it is subjugated and starved, then our empire across seas, armed and guarded by the British fleet, will carry on the struggle until in God's good time the New World and in all its strength and might sets forth to the rescue and liberation of the old."

He said the allies had suffered "a colossal military disaster," that the French army had been weakened and Belgium lost.

The deliverance of the troops from Dunkerque, he said, was largely due to the work of the Royal Air Force, guarding the 230 light warships and 620 other vessels, employed in the work.

He said 30,000 men in the B.E.F. had been killed, wounded or are missing, but added proudly that 335,000 allied troops had been saved from annihilation or capture.

Churchill disclosed that the R.A.F. used "part of the main metropolitan fighter strength" assigned to guard London to strike at German bombers and their protecting fighters who were harassing the movement of the troops across the channel.

He told the cheering house that Britain "shall not be content with a defensive war" and said the nation would never surrender and never give up the struggle against German tyranny.

"We will reconstitute and build up the B. E. F. once again under its flag."

Washington—Secretary Hull announced today that "I heartily approve a resolution declaring the United States would not recognize or acquiesce in transfer of any western hemisphere region from one non-American power to another."

The secretary of state made the statement in a letter to Chairman Bloom (D-N. Y.) of the house foreign affairs committee. Bloom made the letter public after the committee had discussed the resolution for two hours without taking any action.

"The proposed resolution," Hull's letter said "is based squarely upon the idea of full respect for established sovereignties. It would not interfere in any way with continuance of equality of commerce and trade for all nations of the world in their relations with the countries of the American continents."

Introduced Monday

The resolution was introduced yesterday by Bloom and by chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee.

It would, in effect, declare to all foreign powers that the United States officially disapproved any change in the political status of western hemisphere nations or dependencies as a result of the developments of the European war.

The house committee was called together to approve the bill quickly today. Even before it met, Representative Fish of New York, the ranking Republican member, announced his support.

Bolstering the Monroe doctrine, by which President James Monroe in 1823 declared the American continents closed to future colonization by any European powers, the legislation would commit the United States definitely against any effort by Germany—should it defeat the allies—to claim title to British, French, Dutch or Danish possessions in the New World.

Germany Not Mentioned

While the resolution did not specify Germany by name, it did say it was inspired by "unexpected developments" which "are affecting states which have possessions in the western hemisphere" and said "any endeavor to transfer such possessions from their present owners to any other non-American state" would endanger the peace and security of the United States and other American republics.

Germany's foes, the allies, and two of the countries she has occupied, Holland and Denmark, have such possessions in this hemisphere. Therefore, the effect of the resolution was to aim directly at Germany as things now stand.

14 Officials of Union Arrested

Records Also Seized in Cook County Grand Jury Quiz

Chicago—(P)—Fourteen officials of the Chicago bartenders' union, seized by police in a raid on the organization's headquarters, were subpoenaed today to appear at tomorrow's session of the Cook county grand jury.

The men, including Louis Romano, present head of the union, were taken into custody by state's attorney's police last night. Certain records of the union also were seized.

After questioning the men most of the night regarding operations of the union, Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said six of them, including Romano, would be held for still further questioning.

All of them were served with subpoenas, Crowley said.

A suit filed in circuit court last Friday by George B. McLane, founder of the union, accused the "Capone syndicate" of "muscling" into the union and establishing its own dictator over more than 4,000 members.

McLane alleged he was harassed as business agent through intimidation and that a member of the "syndicate" took control of the union.

An injunction restraining the alleged "Capone gangsters" from exercising "dictatorial" powers granted them under the union's by-laws last month has been granted by Judge George Fred Rush.

Aldermen Ask City to Pay Their Attorney Fees in Salary Action Brought by Council

City officers today were wondering whether they should sign checks totaling $333 made out to Appleton's 18 aldermen to pay their attorneys' fees in the council's suit against the city to regain $500 salaries cut in half by referendum more than a year ago.

The checks, representing $18.50 for each alderman, were authorized and approved by the council's finance committee along with other costs on the city's side of the case.

When the supreme court upheld the decision of Judge Thomas H. Ryan establishing salaries of $500 per year, each alderman had $250 in back pay coming for 1939. The amount had been withheld by the city treasurer pending the municipal court's decision and the appeal to the supreme court.

On the basis of the high court's decision the city paid each alderman $251.50 and paid the remaining amount, $18.50 for each alderman, to their attorneys, Benton, Bosser Becker and Parrell.

The aldermen now ask the city to pay their attorney fees incurred in the council's suit against the city. The voucher will be before the council for approval Wednesday night.

Payment of the attorney's fees directly by the city from money due the aldermen was authorized by the 18 aldermen in their agreement with their attorneys. The agreement "directed and empowered" city officers to pay the attorney fees before any other assessments were made against the back pay.

The city paid court costs of $125 but until now the finance committee had refused to authorize payment of costs incurred by city officers in defending the suit and the appeal. These amounts now have been approved for payment.

They include $12 paid to the clerk of courts for the appeal; $15.92 for the city attorney's trip to Madison to present his case; $52.50 to the Badger Printing company, Appleton, and $36.84 to the Hess Linotype company, Milwaukee, for printing briefs in the municipal and supreme court actions.

France Decides Against Bombing German Towns; Nazis Capture Dunkerque

Berlin—(P)—The German army has taken the fortress of Dunkerque, together with 40,000 prisoners, after heavy fighting in that escape port for the allied armies of the north, the German high command announced today.

The announcement said that the entire Belgian and French channel coast as far south as the Somme estuary is now in German hands.

The communique said: "The fortress of Dunkerque has been taken after heavy fighting. Forty thousand prisoners and a vast amount of booty fell into our hands."

"As a result of this action, the entire Belgian and French channel coast up to the mouth of the Somme has been completely occupied by German troops."

Await New Offensive

The report that Dunkerque had been captured, following swiftly after announcement that German troops had entered it, came as an "experimental" bombing of the Paris region, waited orders to strike again—in conjunction with a great land offensive which most Germans expect to start in the west any day.

Puncture of the allied rear guard, defending the withdrawal from the German pocket in Flanders was achieved in hard fighting, the high command acknowledged.

"The fight for Dunkerque is nearing its end," the communique declared. "Our troops penetrated into the town and captured Ft. Louis from the desperately fighting enemy. House-to-house fighting is still going on with French troops whose task it was to protect the flight of the British soldiers to their vessels."

The German air-raids yesterday destroyed between 300 and 400 allied planes in hangars and on airfields in addition to shooting down 104, the communique reported.

Proposed Wagner Act Amendments Put Before House

Little Chance of Final Congressional Action This Session

Washington—(P)—Advocates of revising the Wagner labor act forced the long-standing question of amendments before the house today, even though chances for final congressional action at this session appeared to be remote.

A group headed by Representative Smith (D-Va.), Cox (D-Ga.), Routhon (R-Ohio) and Halleck (R-Ind.) insisted that the members go on record on two sets of revisions. They agreed with supporters of the law, however, that the senate would pigeonhole any changes approved by the house.

"The house is for major changes in the act and the labor board and wants a chance to express itself," Cox said.

Leaders See Delays

But Chairman Norton (D-N. J.) of the labor committee and many administration leaders said that the house would be wasting three or four days which the debate is expected to require.

Smith, chairman of a special committee investigating the labor board, is sponsoring 17 amendments based on creation of a new board, separation of the agency's administrative and judicial functions, and new safeguards for employers and existing labor unions. They were approved by himself, Halleck and Routhon but denounced by the other two committee members—Representatives Healey (D-Mass.) and Murdock (D-Utah).

Mrs. Norton and a majority of her labor committee are supporting five amendments centered on the addition of two members to the present three-man board.

"That is the only amendment necessary, if any are necessary," Healey told reporters.

Senate Passes Bill Authorizing Boost in Naval Air Force

Washington—(P)—The senate approved legislation today authorizing expansion of the naval air force to 10,000 planes, manned by 16,000 pilots, and providing for the establishment of a defensive ring of naval air bases around the United States.

The measure now goes back to the house for action on senate changes, chief of which was an amendment putting a ceiling of 10,000 planes on the air force. As passed by the house, the bill had authorized "not less" than 10,000 planes.

Cost of the expansion program, to be met by the future appropriations, was estimated at $2,250,000,000 by the senate naval committee.

The committee said it would require $1,150,000,000 to acquire sufficient planes to reach the 10,000 mark and $90,000,000 to train additional pilots. The navy now has on hand 1,813 planes, with 933 on order and funds available to purchase 146 more. The total number of available pilots was set at 2,958.

One Killed and Two Hurt in Collision of Auto, Gravel Truck

Park Falls, Wis.—(P)—Clarence Erdman of Wisconsin Rapids was killed today and two companions were injured in the collision of their automobile and a gravel truck.

Henry Ticknor and Kenneth Erdman of Wisconsin Rapids were treated for injuries in the hospital here, but they were not seriously hurt.

The accident occurred at 1:45 a. m. on Highway 13 a mile and a half south of Park Falls. The truck, driven by Clarence Enhelver, 44, of Fifield, was traveling south; the Wisconsin Rapids car, a coupe, was headed north.

Coroner Walter Blume ordered an inquest, the date of which was not fixed immediately.

The vessel was downbound with 12,000 tons of ore.

Paris—(P)—A war ministry spokesman announced today that French planes had bombed airports and industrial regions of Munich and Frankfurt in reprisals for yesterday's German air-raid on Paris.

New York—(P)—A British radio broadcast, picked up here by CBS listening station, said German planes had bombed Cherbourg, French port.

Fascist Cabinet Gives No Answer To War Question

Approves Measures To Prepare Italy for Entry Into Conflict

Rome—(P)—Premier Mussolini's cabinet approved today a series of measures to prepare the nation for war, but left unanswered the question when Italy would enter the European conflict at Germany's side.

In an anxiously awaited 90-minute session, with 12 duce presiding, the ministers moved to extend war preparations to Italy's African empire, to strengthen the navy and tighten discipline in the war industries.

But Italy's position as a non-belligerent ally of Germany remained unchanged by the meeting, to which the world had looked for days for a clue to its duce's next move.

The measure dealing with war industries provided punishment for infractions of discipline which would interfere with output.

Funds For Warships

The cabinet voted additional funds for warship construction but the amount was not disclosed.

Provision also was made for the admission of more student officers to the royal naval academy.

Regulations restricting the employment of women in public services were rescinded by a measure intended to allow women to replace men called to arms.

The law aimed at tightening discipline in war industries was assumed in foreign circles to be aimed against sabotage.

Another measure provided concessions to permit the temporary importation and exportation of foods.

Penalties against the hoarding of commodities were extended to Libya and Ethiopia.

One decree aimed to speed up the requisitioning of copper.

Details of the measures were not disclosed.

U. S. Marketing Administration Files Against Chicago Firm

Chicago—(P)—The federal milk marketing administration has filed suit in federal court charging the Service Dairy Products, Inc., of Chicago, with handling uninspected or "bootleg" milk purchased from the Dodgeville (Wis.) milk company.

The suit also accused the Chicago company of failure to pay the minimum prices set up by the Chicago marketing order and asked for a court order to compel service dairy products to comply and pay the minimum prices.

The suit alleged the concern failed to pay $12,589 due the producers settlement and in connection with handling 2,398,398 pounds of un-inspected milk and cream purchased from the Dodgeville plant between Sept. 1, 1939 and Jan. 1, 1940. It said the Dodgeville plant was not approved by any health department for handling milk for sale in the Chicago market.

Leopold Gives Inside Story Of Surrender to Roosevelt, Ambassador Cudahy Reveals

BY LOUIS F. LOCHNER

With the German Army—(P)—John Cudahy, United States ambassador to Belgium, disclosed today that President Roosevelt, from a personal letter written him by King Leopold III of the Belgians, knows the inside story of the king's capitulation to the Germans.

Cudahy visited Leopold Sunday for two hours at the castle assigned him by German army.

Here, the defeated king handed Cudahy the letter for President Roosevelt in which the monarch told his side of the story.

Cudahy declined comment on the letter or the status of King Leopold. The American ambassador is out of touch with the world, living on an island as it were. He has contact with neither Washington nor Berlin.

Still, he sticks to his post for he feels he has big work to do with the Red Cross. He realizes Belgium has food for only 50 more days, assuming the Germans do not requisition it.

Realizing that Leopold's dramatic story had never been told, we made a detour of more than 100 miles from France into Brussels.

Since Cudahy felt it incompatible with his present position to comment, an intimate friend of the royal family was interviewed. His account placed Leopold in a new light.

This friend said that the king, lacking what he considered proper, turned to page 12 col. 2

U. S. Army in Need of Additional Manpower, Chief of Staff Says

Washington—(P)—Congress learned from the army's chief of staff today that manpower is the army's "tragic shortage" at present and "the only thing, in a large measure, that can produce immediate results."

Despite his earlier statement that procurement of equipment should take precedence over personnel increases, General George C. Marshall told a house appropriations subcommittee, in testimony made public today, that the army's maximum peacetime enlisted strength of 200,000 men would be inadequate to meet emergencies stemming from the current international situation.

"Personnel at the present moment is our serious deficiency," Marshall said, "in the light of requirements that are being brought to bear on the war department particularly in the last week or more, and the necessity of having seasoned, trained men who can use the new weapons effectively and immediately and with a state of discipline that makes them completely dependable."

Tribunal Upholds Right to Restrict Tavern Licenses

Decision at Madison Sustains Chippewa Falls City Ordinance

Madison—Power of the state and its municipalities to restrict the issuance of tavern operator licenses to persons holding citizenship was upheld by the supreme court today.

Declaring that regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquor did not come within the equality provisions of the United States constitution, the decision sustained a Chippewa Falls city ordinance under which Peter Vieau was refused a license.

It set aside a ruling by Chippewa county Judge Dayton E. Cook that the ordinance and the state law under which it was adopted were unconstitutional.

Vieau was born in Chippewa county Sept. 2, 1891, but moved to Canada where he was naturalized in 1913. He returned to the United States in 1933. When he attempted to go back to Canada three years later he was refused admittance on the ground he had lost his domicile there.

He obtained a tavern operator's license at Chippewa Falls in 1938. When he applied for renewal the following year, the city council denied it because he lacked citizenship qualifications.

The supreme court said the state may prescribe requirements and limit the exercise of privileges under the liquor control law and that Vieau, through lack of citizenship had no ground to complain against the law.

Gifts Held Taxable

The supreme court declared taxable the gifts by George D. Van Dyke, Milwaukee, to three members of his family which he made by converting $270,000 of Liberty loan bonds into silver dollars.

The court affirmed the decision of Circuit Judge Charles L. Aarons that the transaction did not come within the provision of the statute exempting transfers of tangible personal property located outside the state.

Van Dyke presented the bonds to the Federal Reserve Bank at Chicago June 15, 1935, for payment in silver dollars. The bank did not have a sufficient quantity on hand but was able to make payment the following December. It was estimated the currency involved weighed around seven tons.

At Chicago Van Dyke delivered $135,000 in dollars to Douglas Van Dyke, a son, and William D. Van Dyke, Jr., a nephew, for which an account was opened in the First National Bank of Chicago. The other $135,000 was put in trust for Louise Laurence Van Dyke with the first Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee.

In their gift tax reports donor and recipients claimed exemptions on the ground the dollars were tangible property.

The supreme court affirmed Judge Aarons' finding that the dollars were converted immediately into bank credits and served no purpose except as a device for tax evasion.

Losses Salary Suit

Frank A. Maxwell, former Madison treasurer, who sought to collect $1,845 in back salary from the city, was denied the claim by the supreme court today and ordered, instead, to refund $571.70 to the city.

Maxwell claimed reimbursement for a salary waiver he accepted during his term of office. The city, in a counterclaim, contended Maxwell illegally collected a 5 per cent salary increase granted to city officers by referendum.

The high court ruled as follows on the waiver question:

"It seems manifest that a city officer, like any other person, may make a gift to the city by waiving to and that gift may be made a part of his salary as well as anything else. The officer cannot be coerced to waive his salary by threats of removal or refusal to reappoint."

The decision held that a statute prohibiting change in his salary during his term of office prevented Maxwell from immediately collecting the raise authorized in the April, 1937, referendum.

Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis of Dane county had dismissed both the Maxwell claim and the city's counterclaim.

Calls Attention to Law Regarding Out Of State Marriages

With June being a popular month for marriages, Raymond P. Dohr today called attention of couples to the state law regarding marriages performed outside the state. Wisconsin residents married outside the state and planning to reside in the state must record their marriage with the county clerk within 10 days after the marriage, Dohr said.

A marriage application blank must be filled out in the county in which the couple resides and it then is filed with the registrar of vital statistics.

"Numerous fires and explosions were observed," it said.

Despite the scope of the German air assault, the high command said only nine German planes were missing.

While getting set for the next blow, Germany took extraordinary steps in an effort to convince the United States that she has no desire to see the western hemisphere involved in the war and that she is taking unusual measures to avoid even accidental affront to America.

The foreign office formally warned the governments of the United States, Mexico, and Panama that "British agents had been dispatched to Central America in large numbers to manufacture 'evidence' which would create an impression the reich is launching an ambitious program to weaken America."

GERMAN CHARGE

Washington—(AP)—Germany has informed the United States government it has information that the British and French governments have sent agents to South American countries and the Panama Canal Zone to give the impression that a great many German agents were operating there.

The notice was in the form of a memorandum presented to the state department by Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires at the German embassy.

The memorandum, officials said, merely gave a general indication that the German government was in possession of the information. It did not give any details.

Also today, the American embassy in Berlin telegraphed the state department it had been handed a copy of a press announcement by the German official news organization, DNB, that Britain and France intended to sink the American liners Washington, Manhattan and President Roosevelt which now are engaged in removing Americans from Europe.

possession of unstamped liquor has authority to swear out a warrant on the latter charge.

The court reversed a decision of Circuit Judge Carl Runge dismissing prosecution of an illegal liquor charge against George Hunter, Milwaukee, and ordered that further proceedings be taken according to law.

Policeman Francis Raffensperger entered Hunter's premises at 1710 N. Sixth street, Milwaukee, Aug. 14, 1937, with a warrant to search for gambling devices. He claimed he found a quantity of unstamped liquor and returned two days later with a warrant to search for it.

Hunter was arrested on the second warrant, but when he appeared for trial Judge Runge granted a defense motion to suppress the evidence on the ground it had been obtained illegally.

A group of LaCrosse property owners lost in the supreme court today in their suit for an injunction to prevent the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad from building a new passenger station in a LaCrosse section described as a residence area.

The tribunal affirmed Circuit Judge Sherman E. Smalley's decision of Dec. 16, 1939, which denied the injunction and upheld a city council ordinance passed in June of that year authorizing building of the station.

The high court's decision was written by Justice Chester D. Fowler, who said the power of the council to act as it did seemed "too clear to permit of reasonable doubt."

Delay in Announcing Italy's Position Indicates Il Duce Is Having Trouble Mapping Plans

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(AP)—Signor Mussolini has held his anxiously awaited cabinet meeting, and the world still is without the big news of the moment—what Italy is going to do about entering the war.

All Europe, from London's Whitehall to the Dardanelles, has been watching Rome with taut nerves, but if today's cabinet session altered the situation any, that fact hasn't been made public. Il Duce continues to carry about in his buttoned pocket the possible fate of many nations, including his own.

We are informed that the cabinet approved a series of war measures—which indicates preparation for possible hostilities but otherwise isn't particularly illuminating. Beyond that even the German public, which has been among the eager watchers, must wait for news.

Personally I have had the feeling all along, as I have indicated to you before, that Signor Mussolini was finding it extremely difficult to make up his mind what party Italy should play in the war.

Such a decision is, of course, his alone to make. Under the best of circumstances it would present a grave problem, not only from the standpoint of the nation but because of Il Duce's future and the future of his government—and perhaps of fascism itself—are among the things at stake.

It seems clear Mussolini has decided that Italy must take a hand in the war, not only to satisfy her "legitimate aspirations" but in order that she may play a major part in the peace and the rehabilitation of Europe.

He presumably could be assured of a large hand in the peace no matter which side he joined—always providing he picked the winner—but the achievement of those "legitimate aspirations" is another thing. Among those aspirations are territorial adjustments, always hard of achievement short of at the point of the sword.

I can find no indication that Il Duce is certain how Italy's interests would be best served—that is, whether it would be with Hitler or with the allies. However, the attitude of the Italian government recently would indicate that his judgment leans toward Hitler.

Mussolini's difficulties are greatly increased—or so I believe—by the attitude of the Italian people as a whole toward going to war.

Public Frowns On Hitler

It is my impression, as I have reported to you before, that the Italians have no liking, to say the least, for fighting in support of Hitler. Mind you, I'm not saying that they won't follow Mussolini, but he surely would be a very daring man who tried to make war when his people didn't have their hearts in it.

When I was in Italy not long after the Munich show-down I found that the general public had thumbs down on Hitler and the nazis.

The Italians were shocked by the annexations, the anti-Jewish drive and the attempt at regimentation of the Italian churches.

I reached the conclusion that the Italians would be unwilling at that time to engage in any war in support of Hitler or nazism. That sentiment may have changed as the result of the persistent pro-German, anti-allied campaign of the inspired Italian press and fascist officials. It also may have been influenced by Hitler's string of successes.

It is hard to believe, however, that the people as a whole have been persuaded away from those principles which made them dislike Hitler and nazism only a few months ago. That certainly presents one of Mussolini's problems.

It looks very much as though the delay in announcing Italy's position were wrapped up in Il Duce's difficulty in charting his course. He is a very astute individual and one wouldn't expect him to leap without looking.

Iowa Republicans Cast Heavy Vote

Gubernatorial Race Raises Total to Highest in Six Years

Des Moines, Iowa—(AP)—A rousing battle for the gubernatorial nomination lifted the Iowa Republican primary vote to its highest level in six years, unofficial tabulations disclosed today, while the Democratic vote volume at yesterday's polls slumped below that party's 1938 turnout.

Returns from 1,809 of Iowa's 2,450 precincts gave Governor George A. Wilson 128,465 in the Republican gubernatorial race, against 110,251 for Harold R. Gross, the "radio voice" candidate.

Wilson and Gross are "around the corner" neighbors in Des Moines. Irving H. Knudson of Jewell, Iowa, a third Republican candidate, was a weak third with 16,919 votes.

Some observers pointed to the possibility that Democratic votes in the Republican column may have swelled that party's total.

John K. Valentine of Centerville, former federal district attorney for southern Iowa, appeared to have a safe lead in the Democratic race for the gubernatorial nomination. Returns from 1,663 precincts gave Valentine 49,786 and State Senator Ed Gross of Fort Dodge, Iowa, 35,061.

Gross was titled the "voice" candidate after he confined his entire campaign to radio addresses.

Murray, in a speech prepared for the house, is particularly critical of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace for having "given the people to understand that the fifth column is going to be on the farms of our country unless everyone subscribes to the inefficient, unsound and unfair program of the agricultural department. Mr. Wallace better get the fifth columnists out of his own department before he starts worrying about them on the farms of this country," Murray declares.

Brotherhood to End Season With Meeting Tonight

Beginning of Summer Brings Lull in Activity Of Church Groups

With church organizations winding up their programs for the summer and discontinuing activities except for outdoor sessions or picnics, Appleton churches have entered upon their usual lull for the next three months. The Brotherhood of First English Lutheran church will hold its final meeting of the season at 7:45 this evening at the parish hall, at which time plans will be completed for a father's day service.

The Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor, attended a meeting of the board of directors of the Lutheran Home for the Aged, of which he is a member, Monday at Fond du Lac. Ladies Aid society will meet at 2:15 Thursday afternoon at the parish hall.

Women's Union of First Baptist church will serve a public dinner Wednesday noon at the church. The Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, spoke last Sunday on "God's Suffering Servant."

At First Methodist church the Social Union is meeting this afternoon and the board of education at 7:30 this evening at the church. Dr. and Mrs. Harry C. Culver will attend commencement exercises at Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, next Sunday and Monday and reunion activities of Dr. Culver's class, 1904, on Saturday.

Dr. John W. Wilson, pastor-at-large for Congregational churches in Wisconsin, will preach next Sunday at Clintonville, Embarrass and Galesburg. Events at Trinity English Lutheran church for this week include a Missionary society meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. Ira Balheim, 523 S. Douglas street, Ladies Aid society Thursday afternoon in the sub auditorium, and a cake sale Saturday morning at Pettibone.

Conducts Conference

Dr. Ira E. Schlegelhaug, superintendent of Appleton district of the Methodist church, conducted a quarterly conference at Wesley Methodist church, Manitowoc, Monday night, and will attend commencement of Garrett Biblical Institute at Evanston, Ill., Wednesday, presiding at the dinner of the alumni association of which he is president. On Thursday he goes to Wisconsin Rapids for a quarterly conference and next Sunday to Waukegan and Iowa.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage was taken from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In a world of sin and sensuality, hastening to a greater development of power, it is wise earnestly to consider whether it is the human mind or the divine Mind which is influencing one. It is the opposite of good—that is evil—which seems to make men capable of wrongdoing. In the quiet sanctuary of earnest longing, we must deny sin and plead God's aliveness."

Captain Vaughn Will be Honored

Mayor Goodland and Other Officials to Attend Jace Dinner

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., Police Chief George T. Prim, and Kurt Koltetzke, chairman of the police and fire commission, will be speakers at the civic dinner in honor of Captain Patrick J. Vaughn of the Appleton police department this evening at Butte des Morts Golf club.

Captain Vaughn will retire July 1 after 40 years of service on the force.

Harold Stout, president, and other new officers of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the dinner, will be installed at the meeting, which succeeds H. L. Davis, Jr., who will preside in an hour and instead had held out for four days.

"Two armored divisions which otherwise would have been turned against the British Expeditionary Force had to be sent to overcome them."

When he set the time for withdrawal a week ago, he said, "I feared it would be my hard lot to announce the greatest military disaster in our long history."

However, he said, the allies must be very careful not to assign "to this deliverance the attributes of a victory."

"Wars are not won by evacuations," the prime minister said.

PAY UP!

Do you owe Doctor bills? Yes, it's a personal question. But the Doctor's service is a personal service. Candidly, isn't it about time to clear the slate? The Doctor helped you when you needed credit. Help him now. He probably can use your assistance at this time. Yes, why not make a special effort to pay him? # War Situation Today

A fleet of 1,000 allied ships rescued 335,000 French and British soldiers in the great cross-channel retreat from the bloody battle of Flanders, Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons in London today.

Even as Churchill spoke, German columns were reported by the naval high command to be entering the allies' "escape" port of Dunkerque. The prime minister said 30,000 men in the British expeditionary force had been killed, wounded or were missing, but he added that when he first set the time for the withdrawal a week ago "I feared it would be my hard lot to announce the greatest military disaster in our long history."

It was not disclosed how many French and British troops still remained in the channel city.

The high command also claimed 400 allied planes were destroyed in hangars and on the ground in addition to 104 shot down yesterday. "Nine of our machines are missing," the communique said.

Paris said 17 German planes were shot down in yesterday's aerial attack on the French capital.

Mussolini's cabinet stamped the seal of official approval on Italy's still undisclosed war plans today as France signalled "no retaliation" on German civilian populations in the wake of yesterday's mass air attack by 300 Nazi warplanes on Paris.

Authorized French circles said the government would regard the hour-long raid, which took a toll of 45 dead and 200 wounded, as aimed at "military objectives"—not a raid on an open city.

France could "justifiably attack" factories around Berlin, it was said, but not civilians themselves.

Time bombs dropped by the high-flying nazis were still exploding in Paris today.

Berlin was quiet overnight, although it had been expected that the allies might pay a "return call" on the German capital.

Churchill Says Britain Bound to Continue Struggle

gallant commander in chief, Lord Gort," he said.

Against the loss of the 30,000 men, many of whom he predicted would return home safely, Churchill said "far heavier losses were inflicted on the enemy."

Turning to the question of home defense he said:

"We have more military forces in this country at this moment than ever before in this war or in the last." He added, however, that "this will not continue. We shall not be content with a defensive war."

The admirably recounting the fleet's rescue of allied forces trapped in Flanders, disclosed that 6 destroyers and 23 minor craft had been lost in bombing attacks.

Churchill said the British resistance at Calais had enabled the allies to keep the port of Dunkerque open.

"Their sacrifice was not in vain at least," he said, speaking of the men who had refused the German demand to surrender within an hour and instead had held out for four days.

"Two armored divisions which otherwise would have been turned against the British Expeditionary Force had to be sent to overcome them."

When he set the time for withdrawal a week ago, he said, "I feared it would be my hard lot to announce the greatest military disaster in our long history."

However, he said, the allies must be very careful not to assign "to this deliverance the attributes of a victory."

"Wars are not won by evacuations," the prime minister said.

Propose New Laws Regulating Taxi Cab Firms in City

Two ordinances concerning regulation of taxi cabs in Appleton will be considered by the ordinance committee of the common council when it meets at 7 o'clock tonight in city hall.

The first proposed by Alderman Rens Doerfler, would increase the age of cab drivers from 18 to 21 years. The change was asked by George T. Prim, chief of police, after a fatal accident a week ago involving a 19-year-old cab driver.

Alderman Edward Knut asked the second change, an ordinance regulating the number of cabs in the city by forcing taxi companies to prove the need of additional cabs before adding them.

Both proposals came at the last council meeting when aldermen granted a new firm permission to operate in Appleton, the City Cab company.

That softens the hardened and dried parts and helps prevent cracking and soreness. Third, it has an astringent action that tends to reduce the swollen parts and, in many cases, check bleeding.

Try Pazo and see the results you get. Mark the relief from the wracking pain and maddening itching. If Pazo does not give you satisfactory relief, see your doctor as your condition may be such as to require a physician's services.

Reservations for Vacation
Tour to Close on June 10

Reservations for the Appleton Post-Crescent's vacation tour to New York and the world fair, with stops at Niagara Falls, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Washington, will close on June 10, it has been announced. The vacationists will leave here on the morning of Saturday, June 15, prepared to spend eight enjoyable days visiting the fair and seaboard cities.

All expenses of this trip, except for meals in New York and Chicago, are included in the price of $97.55. This provides for railroad transportation, rooms in high class hotels, guide fees, tips, bus fares, ticket to the World's fair, a boat trip around Manhattan island and sightseeing trips. It is one of the most comprehensive vacation tours ever arranged for people of the Fox river valley.

Four nights will be spent in the Commodore hotel in New York, one of the nation's finest hotels, and three days are allowed for visiting the greatest city in the western hemisphere.

There are so many places of interest in New York that it is difficult to even begin to list them all. New York is a composite of a lot of small cities, many of them retaining the atmosphere and customs of the foreign groups that founded them. There are as many Italians in New York as there are in Rome, and there are settlements of other peoples that are almost as foreign as the cities from which the founders originally came.

The big city teems with places of historical interest, inasmuch as New York was the early seat of the federal government, and the city itself is one of the oldest in the nation. Its museums of ancient and modern art, of mechanics and of commercial resourcefulness are among the outstanding of the world and annually attract thousands of visitors.

Many of these places of interest are included in the sight-seeing trips arranged for the Post-Crescent's vacation tourists. A whole day is devoted to visiting places of interest in the big city.

This part of the trip alone is worth a big share of the cost of the vacation, which also includes a day at the fair and visits to Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Washington and Niagara Falls. The return to Appleton will be on Saturday, June 22.

Bad Bid May Force High Type of Play

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Some of the best exhibitions of play follow the worst examples of bidding. This is by no means paradoxical. It is only logical that a declarer should make extraordinary efforts to get out of a "jam" in which a bad bid, either his own or his partner's, has placed him. Today's hand is a case in point. East, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.
East-West 30 part score.

NORTH		EAST

AQ 10 6 5 3	AK 7 4	AQ 10 6 5 3	AK 7 4

WEST SOUTH

AK 6 5 3	AK 10 8 7
AQ 10 6 5 3	AK 7 4
AQ 10 6 5 3	AK 7 4

THE BIDDING:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds
2 hearts	3 diamonds	5 hearts	3 spades
4 hearts	4 spades	Pass	Pass

North's raise of spades should have had a bad result for his partnership. It gave South the impression that North had some length in the suit, and therefore influenced his decision to go on toward game rather than double the opponents. Obviously, the double would have been a much safer course, and, on reasonably good defense, would have rewarded North and South to the extent of 800 points.

West opened his fourth best heart. East won with the ace and, with the prayer that his partner had the king of hearts and, after making it, would lead thru dummy's club king, East returned a low heart. It was the declarer, however, who won this trick, and who now saw that he was in a dangerous position. The comparative shortness of his trump suit and the fact that both the queen and ten were missing, dictated a finesse for the queen, and obviously the normal manner of taking this finesse would be to lead to dummy's king and, on the return, finesse the jack. But this plan was unattractive for one single reason, namely, that if the spade finesse lost to West, he would be sure to shift to clubs, and on the bidding it was fairly certain that dummy's king was in a vulnerable position.

To avoid the danger inherent in the club situation, declarer determined to make a slight detour. Accordingly he led a low spade from his own hand and, when West followed with a low card, ducked the trick in dummy. East won with the ten, but now was helpless to defeat the contract. For want of something better to do, he returned a spade, which was won by dummy's king. Declarer then entered his hand with the diamond king and, with a slight prayer, played the ace of trumps. To his joy, both opponents followed suit, the queen dropping from West. After that it was a simple matter to discard all of his losing clubs on dummy's diamonds. Thus, one over contract was made.

East could have defeated the hand at the second trick, but it would have required clairvoyance to have made the killing play. Had he known that declarer's trumps were not solid, and that West did not hold the king of hearts, East could have led any one of his clubs, thereby establishing two tricks in the suit, which could have been cashed when either defender got on lead with a trump. In the absence of positive knowledge, however, as to who held the heart king, East's play can scarcely be criticized, and the declarer deserved full credit for his clever handling of a ticklish situation.

My Neighbor Says—

Be on the lookout for cabbage worms, for the greatest number of these pests usually come during the early part of July, with a second brood along in August. It is for that reason that early cabbages usually escape with but little damage. From now on it will be necessary to fight for your cabbage crop. Don't hesitate to use arsenate of lead, either in powdered or in liquid form. Then you can substitute bellerose, but be sure it is fresh. Cabbages grow from the inside out, so that there is little need to worry about the danger of being poisoned. None of the makeshift remedies will equal arsenate of lead.

Keep the sister holes on spice boxes closed, otherwise the spices will lose much of their flavor.

One reason jelly is tough is because too little sugar is used; another is overcooking.

Way to Stay Happily Married Is to Follow the Golden Rule

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—Will you please aid our sociology class by answering the following questions: (1) What qualities do boys like to find in a girl? What is a perfect gentleman? Why do girls wear make-up? (2) What qualities do girls like to find in a boy? What is a perfect lady? (3) How long should the courtship period be? How can we improve manners within the school? How can school mates choose desirable friends? How can we stay happily married? THE SOCIOLOGY CLASS, Walbridge High School.

Dorothy Dix

Answer:
Never having been bitten by Solomon's dog, I don't pretend to know all the answers, but here's my guess at the conundrums you propose: I think boys begin by wanting girls to be easy on the eyes. Not "Miss America," but attractive to look at, and to be well dressed, but not too much of a fashion plate. They like girls to be friendly and chatty, but not to talk too much. They like girls who know how to do things. Good dancers, good swimmers, good tennis players and golfists and, if they can sing a little and play on musical instruments, so much the better.

They like a girl who is simple and sincere, who doesn't put on airs and high-tail. They like girls to be intelligent but to keep their brains—any—under cover, and never to surpass them in anything they do. Girls who run a good second are always popular with boys.

The best definition ever given of a perfect gentleman was by Charles Dan Gibson who said that a gentleman is a man who remembers others but never forgets himself.

A gentleman is a man who is clean, honest, brave, who does not flunk to those above him nor snub those beneath him. And he treats every girl as he wants some other boy to treat his sister.

Girls wear make-up because they think that it improves their looks, as it does if they use it artistically.

Girls like boys who are manly and who show that they are manly to amount to something when they grow up. They like boys who are clean within and without, whose morals are as irreproachable as their finger nails and whose clothes are brushed and pressed instead of looking as if they came out of Sloppy Jo's.

They like boys whose mothers have taught them good manners and who are at ease in any company.

They like boys who can keep a conversation going and not make a girl work like a coal heaver to entertain them; who can drive a car without breaking all the speed laws; who can dance without stepping on a girl's feet and tearing her dress off of her; who doesn't expect to be paid with $5 worth of petting for a 5-cent coke. They like boys who have a purpose in life and are trying to fit themselves to be of some use in the world.

A perfect lady is a woman who has sweetness, gentleness, sincerity, honesty, tenderness and sympathy and intelligence, and who makes the world a better place because she lives in it.

Nobody can set a definite date for how long a courtship should be. Generally speaking, however, it should be long enough for a girl and boy to get well acquainted with each other and not so long that they are tired of each other even before they marry.

You can improve manners within the school by setting up an ideal of gracious conduct and practicing it yourself. That will leave the bores so much out in the cold they will see the necessity of polishing up their manners.

You can choose desirable friends in school just as you will have to do in later life—by selecting as companions girls and boys of high character and intelligence.

The way to stay happily married is to follow the Golden Rule. Treat your wife or husband the way you would like her or him to treat you.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

After thirty-five, the majority of women experience fading hair and possibly graying hair. They may have neglected their scalp, or they may not have. No scientist has yet been able to tell us why some women's hair fades more quickly than others. There are many guesses on the subject but the fact remains that there seems little we can do to prevent our hair from turning gray. But we can keep fading hair looking alive and lustrous by pampering it daily with sensible care.

Dry scalps, which usually accompany fading or graying hair, respond willingly to oil. Lots of oil. Oil soaks the night before a shampoo, hot oil shampoos in a salon, and an oil pomade rubbed on curled ends after a setting. Also use an oil liquid shampoo—not a drying one. Between shampoos it is a good idea to rub on the scalp sparingly, a little lubricating oilment or a special tonic mixed for your particular hair condition. At no time should your hair look oily, nor should it look dry and faded.

Various Rinses
Blondes or redheads may use a camomile rinse to get a sunny lustre. This is done by steeping one cup of camomile flowers (purchased at a reputable drugstore) in a quart of boiling water. Strain the mixture and put it on the hair after a thorough shampoo and rinsing. Comb it through the hair evenly and let it remain until next washing.

A lemon rinse, as most of you know, is used to brighten and fluff light hair. The usual mixture is the juice of a large lemon in a quart of warm water. This also is applied after a thorough soap shampoo and several clear water rinsings. Allow it to remain on the hair a few minutes and then rinse it off with clear warm water.

Yellowed Gray Hair
If your hair is light gray or near white, and if the ends are turning yellow, you may bleach it slightly by adding a little hair-rinsing bluing to the last clear water rinse. There is also a tonic available which when used daily, gradually whitens hair that has taken a long time turning. It is available at most good cosmetic counters. Definitely harmless—in fact, it adds your scalp as it whitens the hair.

The use of henna to given fading hair has long been a favorite among women, but most women do not realize that henna shades must be carefully selected, brewed, and applied, so it is best to have henna applied by a professional hair tinter the first time. Then if you are capable, you may apply the henna rinse at home. Never attempt to cover bleached hair with henna without first restoring the hair's vitality through several thorough oil treatments and much brushing.

You may have my treatment for "Oily Scalp" by writing for it care of this paper and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, (3-cent) envelope.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

SALAD SERVICE
Although salads have, and deserve a place on our table the year 'round, it's salads like these that satisfy that craving for lighter, more varied, and yet nourishing meals.

With summer weather approaching the menu planner begins racking her brain and searching her recipe files for good cold dishes. The salad plate is an ideal main dish. "Platter service" is a bright idea for parties and large gatherings, but there is nothing to prevent you trying it on the family, too! A salmon mold, made more filling with the addition of vegetables and more lively with a taste of horseradish, is another really good cold main dish. A frozen fruit salad is another excellent summer salad. These recipes are worth filing away where they will be ready for use along.

- Salmon Mold
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
2 cups hot water
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons drained horseradish
1 cup canned salmon
1 cup canned peas
1 cup cooked diced carrots
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour 1 inch layer of gelatin into a loaf pan. Chill until firm. Chill remaining gelatin until slightly thickened. Add 1 teaspoon salt and horseradish to salmon and vegetables and mix very lightly. When remaining gelatin is slightly thickened, fold in fish and vegetable mixture. Turn into loaf pan over firm layer of gelatin. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise and radish roses. Serves 6.
- Frozen Fruit Salad
3 oz. packages cream cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup diced bananas or seeded white grapes
1 cup pitted white cherries
1 cup crushed pineapple
Blend cream cheese with mayonnaise, then add whipped cream and fruits. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze. Serve on crisp lettuce. Serves 6 to 8.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Girls, if you want to pick wisely when selecting your husband, try the automobile test described today. Happy marriages demand mature adult men, not emotional juveniles. It makes little difference whether the man is 20, 30 or 50 years of age, if he is childish in his emotions, beware! You don't want a baby for a husband.

CASE Q-180: Philip B., aged 19, is a college freshman.

"But he has one very bad fault," his girl friend confessed. "He is a reckless driver."

"He never seems happy unless his car is going at top speed. I don't enjoy such dangerous traveling, but I can't persuade him to stay within the speed limits."

"Several times he has been fined for violating the traffic laws, but he keeps on just the same."

"Dr. Crane, he is a brilliant boy otherwise, so why will he act so stupid?"

DIAGNOSIS:
Young people have been held down so long by precepts and regulations that they like to throw off the yoke of adult supervision and feel free.

This is one of the factors which produces reckless driving on the part of adolescents, and likewise explains some of the recklessness of men with inferiority complexes in their factory or office jobs.

The latter may be very meek yes-men during the day, and then try to compensate for their inferiority complex by trying to burn up the highways with reckless speed. Young people also live at a faster tempo than do adults and enjoy action and speed to a greater degree than do their parents or grandparents.

Camera Is Recommended as Ideal Graduation Present

BY ANGELO PATRI

Graduation time always means gifts for graduates. The favorite nephew or niece who figures in Commencement Day should be remembered with something very special. Books have their limitations, though they are always good. Let me suggest giving a camera.

Young persons are delighted to own cameras. There is the greatest joy in taking pictures of one's friends, especially at commencement. Just for graduation days a camera is almost a necessity. The favorite old teacher, the beloved tree in the schoolyard, the class personalities and intimate pictures, and the ceremony itself are there to be immortalized. The class picture book has taken the place of the old-time autograph album. The picture is taken and the autograph line below is filled in. What would days? You can't go amiss if you give the graduate a camera.

Ideal for Vacation
Summer vacation is coming along and a camera is a necessity then, too. Diaries are likely to be neglected on a trip; it is not always convenient to write the daily stint. But the camera can be taken along and the daily record made without the least inconvenience. Afterward there is the fun of developing the shots, and mounting them in the book. The young person who has the picture book habit will own a library of memories that will be priceless. It is a good idea to encourage the making of such books.

For the boy who loves to tramp the mountains and forests a camera is better than a gun. It won't hurt him if he happens to fall on it, nor will it harm anything or anybody else, if he happens to have an accident with it.

What it will do is almost beyond telling. It will give him a lasting interest in loving creatures, in growing things, in running water and floating clouds. It will give him a feeling of kinship with nature and it will lead him to an appreciation of pictures of all kinds. A camera opens the eyes to beauty everywhere, and one can give a child no greater gift than one that is an introduction to beauty.

Invaluable to Students
The beginner should have a simple, inexpensive camera, but a good one. By a good one I mean one that can do fine work in its class. The picture will be clear and sharp and the color of it satisfying. Expensive cameras should be given only to those who know how to use them. Armed with one of the modern apparatuses picture-taking becomes high art. First there should be an apprenticeship.

Students need cameras. A camera's notes are accurate. They can be taken over a period of time and so form a record of growth and progress, they form a ready and reliable reference. In short, a graduate of any school, from elementary through the university, needs and should own a good camera. A watch, a book, a dictionary, and a camera—what wealth. But graduation time is a special time.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

LITTLE SPITFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Mac buys a car and takes Brenda out. She enjoys his company until they disagree violently about the Abernathy twins. Brenda tries to concentrate on her writing again but a letter arrives concerning Salrus.

Chapter 16
"Mind Your Own Business"
On her way to see Hugh, Brenda heard her name called. She stopped impatiently. Having made up her mind to a move which might be deemed by others somewhat unwise and officious, she was naturally impatient at any delay in this action.

"What is it, Dorothy? You are Dorothy, aren't you?"
Dorothy gave a timid grunt in reply. Her broad face was scarlet either from her exertions or from embarrassment, and she fingered the hem of her apron exactly like the second housemaid in a good old British drama.

"Well, what can I do for you, Dorothy?" Brenda asked.
Dorothy mumbled something, at the same time poking an awkward finger into her hair.

"What is it? You'll really have to speak up if you want me to hear."
"Curly!" the innocent orphan gasped. "I want to have curly like yours."

The astounded Miss Burnham gazed at her in silence. It appeared that Kipling was right, after all! The Colonel's lady—or at any rate, the Brenda Burnhams and Dorothy Arnolds were sisters under the skin so far as curls went anyway.

She said kindly: "I'm afraid a permanent is the best you can do along that line, Dorothy. You see, I was born with curly hair just as you were born with straight." She eyed the thick tow-covered locks speculatively. "I'll bet her hair is down to her waist."

"You'd really be wise not to touch it though," she warned. "It's very nice hair, and such a lot of it!"

Dorothy gulped. "Too much! I have to wear the awfullest old hats! Would you—please, Miss Brenda, would you—ask Mrs. Arnold can I have a permanent?"

Brenda's besetting sin, her sin of independence, rose in one outraged leap.

"Ask her? Why should I or any speed demon as adolescent in his emotional development."

The Ponce De Leon Complex
Occasionally older men will revert to more juvenile emotional behavior. Panicky over their bald pates and waning masculine vigor, they may go haywire and start running around with young girls, even to the extent of flaunting their youthful paramours in front of their own wives and children.

Such men may often try to adopt other adolescent habits, among which is speeding. I know of several chronologically mature males here in Chicago who are reckless drivers, partly because they are under the influence of the Ponce de Leon Complex, and want to adopt evidences of youth.

Philip's girl friend is wise in protesting against his emotional immaturity as shown by his reckless driving. If a man wishes to speed, let him become an auto racer and do it properly. There is a time and place for such things, but public highways are never the place.

A boy who is reckless at the wheel of an automobile, indicates his adolescent emotional development and lack of mature male experience. He is a poor bet, not only as an escort but also as a husband, for it takes grown men to make successful marriages.

THE HOME GARDENER

by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Flower gardeners can well take a lesson from the vegetable gardeners who grow several crops a season on the same soil. In the flower garden this insures a continuous bloom over a long season. Do not follow a plan made for by another. Instead personalize your garden to the extent that you grow only the plants from which you derive the greatest pleasure.

Start by planting flowers which bloom in midseason among those easy bloomers which you know will do well about the time when hot weather arrives. The early phloxes, for instance, can have the new zinnias as replacements. Tetra marigolds make a fine show growing the beautiful foliage that remains after columbines have flowered. Chrysanthemums started in another part of the garden or grown as pot plants in frames can be useful in replacing the waning midsummer bloom.

Before you become too far involved in the plan, understand that this system of gardening, while easy, requires attention to details but repays the extra effort especially in gardens of limited size.

Not to be mixed are plants that make specific demands. For instance, the heaths persist only when furnished with an acid environment while many other families, especially irises and the rock plants, do well only when growing in chalky or alkaline soil. Keep these two kinds thoroughly separate and you will find companion gardening pays the dividends you have hunted.

But a fruit punch or some other cold beverage is necessary! You can't drink a toast to the bride and groom in ice cream—or water! An ice-cold punch or orangeade and the wedding cake, of course, are essential. To those you might add ice cream and small cakes, but they couldn't replace the former.

Young Girls Give Piano Recital
Dear Mrs. Post: I am presenting the young girls of my intermediate classes at a piano recital and would like to know what they should wear. The recital is in the evening and the girls are between the ages of thirteen and sixteen. The weather will be warm.

Answer: They should wear their prettiest party dresses. Or gandy (or other sheer cotton) dresses with long skirts and puffed sleeves and boat-shaped or square necks would be lovely.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to slip to her readers. Today's offer is "What To Wear and When." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

EXCEPTIONAL CASE
Ordinarily, of course, the lady of honor at dinner is seated on the right of the host, and a gentleman guest of honor on the right of the hostess. However, the following situation is exceptional because the guest of honor is a son of the host. The mother's letter explains further: "This son is to be ordained as a priest and the dinner is in his honor. There will be relatives and five or six visiting priests at the dinner."

In this case, the fact that people are all invited to the dinner in his honor makes it clear that the dinner is for him. He would certainly waive the seat of honor at the right of his mother in favor of one of the visiting priests.

Dressing for What Comes Later
Dear Mrs. Post: Are long afternoon dresses ever worn as early in the day as lunch time? I don't mean the guests coming in but the hostess and the guest of honor and several of the hostess' best friends who are assisting in whatever way they can. The lunch party is just for a favored few friends and after this there will be a big reception to which many others are invited to meet the guest of honor.

Answer: Ordinarily long dresses are not worn as early as lunch time but if the reception is to follow the lunch, people will naturally dress for the reception—since this is the more important event of the day. The wearing of long dresses at lunch would therefore be obvious.

Morning Wedding Refreshments
Dear Mrs. Post: Would ice cream molds and small cakes be unsuitable refreshments to serve after a midmorning wedding. We are not going to be able to serve a real breakfast and yet we have our doubts as to whether the ice cream would be proper at a morning hour.

Answer: Ice cream and little cakes would be very welcome in place of sandwiches should the day

Limburger Cheese Causes Buyer to be Stranded in Field

Sycamore, Ill. —(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Harvey Danforth held his nose while Ralph Wagner of Fairfield, Ill., told him the following story: Wagner bought Limburger and Swiss cheese in Monroe, Wis. He started for Fairfield but when he arrived in Freeport, Ill., he feared his cheese might be spoiling so he hired an airplane pilot to fly him the remainder of the trip for $20. Wagner paid $5 down, with the balance due on arrival. Near De Kalb, the pilot changed his mind about the whole thing and landed Wagner and the cheese in a field of alfalfa. Wagner telephoned the sheriff's office at Sycamore. Danforth appended this note: He found Wagner sitting disconsolately in the alfalfa and confidentially, the limburger was in proper aroma.

Weston Serving 13th Year as Marshal at College Graduation

This will be Dr. Arthur W. Weston's 13th year as marshal of Lawrence college commencement.

Dr. Weston, who is professor of Latin and Greek at the college, acted as marshal for the inauguration of Dr. Henry M. Wriston in the autumn of 1924. Thereafter, with the exception of the years 1929, '30, and '31, he has been "the head man" for college commencement programs.

His duties include planning of the program, organization of the faculty procession at both baccalaureate and commencement, and figuring out the seating arrangement for the services.

Dr. Weston can recall only three times since he's been marshal that rain marred the commencement proceedings.

Latin America Is Source of Concern in U.S. Defense Plan

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—The blunt fact is that we may have to be using American troops in the western hemisphere for the purpose of protective occupation. Nothing is to be gained by longer delay in facing that possibility.

Abrupt changes have taken place and old patterns of thinking and old attitudes have been outmoded by these changes. Conditions which we could once view with tolerance become, in the new times, dangerous to the security of the western hemisphere.

This isn't a matter of hysteria here but is based upon cold calculation, upon recognition of the sharply altered face of affairs. Actually the administration has leaned over backward, and has indulged in vague understatement to avoid fanning up excitement over the matter. Our government has exercised a diplomatic restraint that would be disdained by a Hitler.

In asking congress for authority to call out the national guard if needed, President Roosevelt was so cautiously indefinite in his language that some jumpy legislators thought he had in mind sending an AEF to Europe. General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, tried to clear the confusion in a statement that hinted at the possibility of dangerous developments in the western hemisphere.

Three sources of anxiety exist with regard to Latin America:

First, there is a large amount of German, Italian and Japanese penetration in Latin America. With totalitarian governments, there is no difference between economic and political penetration. They are the same thing. Economic deals by totalitarian governments are political deals.

A trade arrangement between a Latin American country and Great Britain used to be a matter of purely economic competition, so far as we were concerned. But a trade deal between a Latin American country and a totalitarian government becomes a political event of interest to us Japan is buying Mexican oil. A pipe-line to the west coast of Mexico is being suggested. Suppose Japan finances the pipe-line. Suppose, as has been rumored, Japan insists upon placing some naval protection around the port at the mouth of the pipe-line? In some Latin American countries, newspapers are depending upon subsidized German government news services.

News from Latin America for two years has told of various methods of penetration and of the proselytizing that goes on among the large German and Italian populations in some of those countries to the south. We now know how such methods can be converted into domination by a totalitarian government.

Second, there is immediate concern over possibilities in Mexico. This is not hysterical chatter-which lies between the United States and the Panama Canal. Conditions are exceedingly unstable. A Mexican presidential election is to be held July 7 if a Communist outbreak isn't set off earlier to frustrate the election. American Communists know what is going on, because at their national convention in New York over the weekend they adopted resolutions opposing defense preparations and any intervention in Latin America. Wouldn't it be nice if the Communists got away with a political blitzkrieg right at our door? It was mainly with this situation in mind that the request for authority to call out the national guard was made, although officials hesitate to say so.

Third, is the possibility that we might be compelled, upon short notice, to occupy some of the western hemisphere islands and mainland possessions of European powers. We need them anyway and some of our best naval minds have urged that President Roosevelt acquire them by purchase now. In event of an allied defeat we would have to be ready to occupy them promptly, because we will not permit any foreign aggressor power to acquire title to them.

These are not hysterical chatter-

IDEAS THAT MIGHT BE TERMED FATHEAD

Last week-end another high wave of hysteria swept our Atlantic seaboard.

It was occasioned by the discovery that in Ecuador, Colombia and Brazil Germans had established airlines and that at the present time about 100 planes of the Junker class, that could be easily employed as bombers, were in use. The more the Atlantic seaboard thought of the Panama canal the more frantic it became.

In looking over the place of origin of the Reserve Officers Training Corps, that band of valiant men who voluntarily prepare themselves to defend the nation because it is too stupid to defend itself, we note that the Atlantic seaboard provides fewer of these volunteers proportionately than any other part of the country.

The one who does least for himself cries loudest for help.

If the extreme picture which our President held up before the country of our vulnerability to attack from a dozen points were true and fair why is it that nothing has been done to prepare America for any eventuality?

The blame for helplessness cannot be put upon Mr. Roosevelt alone. He is only one of a great number of loose and lazy thinkers. The cause of our unpreparedness may be explained in one example. When the CCC was established as a training camp to give young men a more useful and wholesome outlook upon life a few public men and some periodicals, the Post-Crescent included, suggested that these millions should be given military training. The angry retorts, the dark and scowling glances, turned toward those with this idea resembled the western sky when thunder showers ride high.

This same attitude has defeated every effort in Wisconsin to have our university give compulsory military training to the thousands of lucky boys who are trained at the expense of the taxpayers of the state to occupy the best paid positions in the state.

Whatever Mr. Roosevelt's personal opinion about training the CCC may have been, or that of political leaders in Wisconsin in relation to the university, there was neither enough brains or courage in public office to carry the banner of the truth to the people.

And the people often act like phoos themselves. They too often support defeatist doctrines, lazy and slovenly doctrines, makeshift and vagabond doctrines, or they listen fatuously with mouths open while some popeyed socialist tells them that if they train men to protect their mothers and their families they make friends out of them tramping the countryside through the night looking for a chance to spill blood.

If these leaders had enough sense to come in out of the rain they would know that there is no finer training for any youth who ever grew up than the army training, no cleaner, healthier, more moral or more wholesome life.

How much better the American people would rest tonight if the CCC camps had trained the millions of young men who have attended in the indispensable role of the military. How much more handsily would we have done our job in Wisconsin if every male graduate of the university had two years military training so that today he could upon call immediately respond to the demands of an officer's position instead of running around like another member of a mob either to be shot down or quickly surrender in case of attack.

What possible answer can there be to this simple reasoning—Training our millions to defend the nation cannot possibly do any harm and in the remote chance that we are attacked it will be of inestimable value.

Our own history in the war of 1812 when an insignificant British army marched wherever it pleased and finally burned our public buildings in Washington, can we not even learn from that? And what good did it do our country then to have a million men spring to arms who ran hither and thither like lake fishes blown by a high wind?

Unpreparedness is a principle of Socialism that has infiltrated our national leaders together with other Socialist principles. And these principles invariably precede the ruin of every democracy.

AN ECHO FROM HUEY LONG
After less than 30 minutes deliberation a Louisiana jury has found the former governor of that state guilty of accepting over $31,000 as a rakeoff on the purchase by the Highway Department of some trucks.

This is a deep scar driven into the features of government. Seldom is it that a man elected to such exalted office turns out to be nothing more than a cheap rogue.

It has been one of the blessings, and certainly a saving grace, in our form of government that most men elected to important positions have turned their backs upon anything so crude and wretched as personal financial bribery. It is true that we have had many who have supported doctrines they knew were faulty just for the cheers and support they could get out of them. It is true that we have had a number who have made promises they had no idea of ever fulfilling, and other promises they broke when they considered it expedient to do so.

But somehow these cases are not quite so bitter and poisonous to the taste as that of Leche, Huey Long's right hand man.

Although Leche denied upon the stand that he got this particular $31,000 he had to admit upon cross-examination, because the prosecutor had the records, that in his short stay in the governor's chair he had enriched himself over $500,000, an amount he claimed resulted from advantageous "investments."

They haven't finished the corruption trials in Louisiana. If they ever do they'll have to build more prisons. "Every man a millionaire" has left the state with a bonded indebtedness of 200 millions of which it is estimated by the investigators at least 50 millions were corruptly divided among the gang and spent to sustain the gang in office.

As the people of Louisiana pay the high rate of interest on this bond issue and every year contribute to liquidate a part of the principal they may dream long dreams about the demagogues who trimmed them and how they must have chortled at the ease with which it was done.

THE STUKAS AND THE BATTLESHIPS
The fog that held sway over the English channel at Dunkirk was a help in getting the trapped army out of an impossible position but even in fair weather it was demonstrated that the dive-bombers cannot overcome a modern navy.

The damage done by these German hawks of the air was not inconsiderable but it was far from sufficient to thwart a nation in transporting an army under the protection of a great navy.

The British sent out destroyers to fight these Stukas. Destroyers are small, swift, comparatively cheap and therefore numerous. They mount many anti-aircraft guns and they present a target difficult to hit. When they are lost their crew is not many and they may be handily replaced. If we accept the English figures of the Stukas downed and the German figures of the destroyers bombed we should say the English got much the better of the battle after the boats left Dunkirk.

England cannot help but be heartened by the superiority of its navy over the German air forces even though the disaster of its venture into Flanders and the manner in which the German high command outmaneuvered and outsmarted it cannot be belittled.

England knows now that the Germans cannot successfully invade the island. Any such attempt will get the invader into even a more ghastly trap than the English army stumbled upon in Flanders.

WAS THE DOUGLAS SABOTAGED?
The destruction of a Douglas air transport on its trial run at Los Angeles was mighty queer.

When a brand new airplane, given the acid test by shop and office, fails utterly before it can get 500 feet off the ground it is time to be suspicious. Suspicion is corroborated by the great record of American airplanes in flying millions of miles without a mishap.

But it is difficult to discover sabotage in such instances because of the destructive violence of a plane's collision with the earth.

It is to be hoped that if the FBI ascertains this plane was destroyed by a member of the Red bund, it will not be anyone who has lately had an open door to high government circles at Washington.

HARRY BRIDGES AGAIN

A House committee unanimously reported out a bill directing the Secretary of Labor to arrest and deport Harry Bridges, west coast labor torch bearer.

If such an act is passed and signed it will only disgrace those who participate in it.

Harry Bridges may be one of the biggest punks in the country but America should not try him upon hearsay and rumor.

He has been tried before a commissioner appointed by the Secretary of Labor and that commissioner found the charges against him unsustained.

If the House wants to correct the evil in our laws it will pass deportation to the courts and take it out of the arena of politics.

Deporting Bridges under existing circumstances and in the manner outlined would be little short of mob rule.

From 1928 to 1939 inclusive there were 542,370 persons killed or injured by autos in California.

The DAILY WASHINGTON
MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—Outside of Army and Navy circles, a vague but persistent optimism seems to pervade Washington that the allies will come out all right.

"France and Britain just cannot lose," is the typical remark of Washington dowagers. "I'm sure that at the last moment they will come through."

But a careful study of the confidential war bulletins received by the army and navy give absolutely no grounds for such optimism. In fact, to use the bluntest language, it will take a military miracle to prevent an overwhelming German victory, including the occupation of London.

And unfortunately, miracles in modern warfare occur on the side with the most tanks and airplanes.

The fighting which took place in Flanders last week probably was the most desperate in the history of the world, even bloodier than the Battles of the Marne and Verdun. Corpses were piled high. The trapped French and British made the Germans pay in floods of blood for every foot they advanced. They knew that most of them had no chance of escaping, but their objective was to weaken the Germans, give time to General Weygand to strengthen the defenses of Paris.

The key to this war (and also to American defense) is to remember that khaki does not stop machine-gun bullets, while tanks do. Also that it is impossible to whip an enemy whose airplanes can spy out every move and blast that move even before it gets started.

The air and tank preponderance of the nazis is the crux of their successes.

ROY HOWARD'S ARMISTICE
Dynamic Roy Howard, smartly-attired little boss of the Scripps-Howard newspapers and frequent critic of the New Deal, breezed into the executive offices for a conference with the president. White House reporters immediately rushed forward to interview him.

First question was popped by Felix Belair, crack New York Times newsman. With deadpan innocence, he inquired: "Bringing an armistice, Mr. Howard?"

Howard, who premature "scoop" on the signing of the World War armistice in 1918 is a newspaper epic, joined in the burst of laughter. U. S. RIFLES TO ALLIES?

There is something awfully funny about the war department order of March 14, 1940, prohibiting the sale of surplus army goods to anyone who might even be suspected of passing them on to the allies.

The president of the United States has outlined a policy of helping the allies in every possible way short of war. The cabinet has worked out a policy of selling the allies airplanes previously ordered by the army. And yet the war department has issued an order preventing the sale of its surplus goods to any agent of the allies or anyone even suspected of being an agent.

All this came to light last week when the French and British purchasing missions attempted to buy some Enfield rifles and some 75-MM. field artillery guns held by the army from the World War.

This in itself indicates how desperate is the position of the allies. One year ago, these guns were considered out of date.

The Enfields are part of 3,000,000 guns manufactured during the World War, in part for the British army. About a million were sold to the Chinese, leaving 1,850,000 in government warehouses. Also in government warehouses are 1,500 field artillery pieces, which General Marshall has said need new gun carriages and would cost $8,000 each to remount.

ALLIED NEED DESPERATE
However, the allies want to buy them for immediate use. When they asked Secretary Morgenthau about it he shoved the war department order under their noses. This makes purchase impossible.

The war department claims that this order was written in conformity with the Neutrality act, and was issued with the full knowledge of the president. However, high-powered American lawyers hired by the allies to study every kink in the Neutrality act, can find nothing to bar such sales. The act of 1932 passed by congress permits the sale of surplus war department goods to anyone, and in 1933 Jimmy Roosevelt helped arrange for the sale of army supplies destined to the Bolivian government.

Also, there doesn't seem to be much difference between diverting to the allies airplanes already ordered by the army, and selling out-of-date shoulder rifles now in army storehouses. Chief difference is the pure legal technicality that in the case of the rifles, title has already passed to the United States government.

WAR CHAFF
Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma says: "The people of my state are probably ahead of the president in his attitude toward Europe."

Dorothy Thompson says the best key to Italian war sentiment was given her by an Italian in Milan, who said: "Curse the English, who drove us into the arms of those swine, the Germans!"

U. S. diplomatic reports from Russia describe a bad food shortage there. Even in Odessa, center of Russia's wheat growing section, the streets are black with people standing in line for food. U. S. diplomats get no food privileges, have to shop in the same way as the hoi polloi.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

The Social Security board is uneasily sitting on a secret that shows Chairman Arthur Altmeyer to be almost as poor a guesser as the late, and unlamented, Chamberlain government.

According to confidential SSB figures, Altmeyer is just 65 per cent wrong in his estimate of the number who would apply for old age pensions under the so-called "liberalizing" revisions enacted by congress last year.

Testifying before the senate finance committee in behalf of the amendments, Altmeyer airily pooh-poohed charges that oldsters would not apply for pensions and predicted that over 900,000 applicants would file for benefits totaling around $114,000,000 in 1940. Congress took his word for it.

But today, the inside figures—which the SSB has not made public—show the critics to have been right and Altmeyer more than two-thirds wrong.

During the first four months of the year, only 62,364 eligibles applied for pensions totaling $117,933. This is a pretty sick showing compared to glowing forecasts.

As a result of the flop, SSB moguls privately have revised Altmeyer's figures, now hopefully estimate the year's total at 300,000 applicants for benefits amounting to $40,000,000—instead of 900,000 receiving $144,000,000.

Note—SSB explanation is that the average worker eligible for a pension makes around $68 a month. And he is unwilling to give this up for a $23 income under the pension system.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—Around the Town: Alf Landon, grinning broadly, faces a battery of cameras. Calls several of the photographers by first names. Wears a crumpled, blue suit that's too large, a battered gray winter hat.

"Gee, Governor," shouts one of the boys, "you must not have been getting your buckwheats regularly. You must be off 20 pounds."

A capital news ace, object of a practical joke, being escorted bodily from a meeting of the senate subcommittee on military appropriations by Chairman Thomas of Oklahoma.

The newsmaster had entered the anteroom and asked casually for the friendly rival who represents his chief opposition. "He's in there," said the joker, jerking his thumb toward the committee room. The newsmaster made a bee-line for it, got inside before he discovered it was a strictly secret executive session.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, bareheaded and carrying a brief case, walking unnoticed through a crowd of gapers around the White House executive entrance gate. Almost invariably the comments of persons who meet the medium-height secretary for the first time is: "Goodness, I thought he was taller than that!"

Army recruiting note from J. B. Snyder, the Perryopolis, Pa., representative reporting to the House on his survey of the war games in Louisiana and Texas: "This new equipment permits the army to furnish troops with hot food of a much greater variety than heretofore. The days of slum as a standard menu seem to be numbered; the more abundant life has reached the soldier in the field."

Senatorial courtesy: Mr. Ashurst, Mr. President—Mr. Clark of Missouri: I yield to the senator from Arizona.

Mr. Ashurst: I should like to say a word if the senator will permit me.

Mr. Clark: I shall be glad to have the senator from Arizona interrupt me at any time.

Mr. Ashurst: I thank the senator from Missouri. I have already announced myself as a candidate for reelection to the senate. I am opposed by two or three able candidates.

Mr. Clark: I am sure that will be unfortunate for the candidates who have announced themselves.

House discourtesy: Mr. Thomas F. Ford of California: Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Ditter, of Pennsylvania: I must indeed express not only a surprise but a profound regret.

Mr. Bradley, of Pa.: Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Ditter: Not at this time.

Mr. Ford: He never does.

Mr. Bradley: Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Ditter: Very well, because I love the gentleman so much I yield to him.

Mr. Ford rises.

Mr. Ditter: No, I am not yielding to the gentleman from California. I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Ford sits.

White House party: Mrs. Roosevelt, all smiles, and with: "How do you do. It's nice to see you," forming a one-lady receiving line. One realizes suddenly that Mrs. Roosevelt has put on weight, and shows no outward signs of her strenuous activities of the last seven years.

The President drops in for a few minutes; receives guests in the long line that formed after his appearance. He jokes . . . hammers the right arm of his chair with the palm of his hand in characteristic gesture of great amusement . . . Suddenly, secret service men break the line, disapprove the long queue with the report that the President is tired, must retire. Soon, Mrs. Roosevelt leaves, too.

In spite of the music and the gaiety, in spite of the President's laugh, the First Lady's smile, there is a grim undercurrent. Underneath the evening gowns and new hair-dos and black ties, are nerve ends and misery.

Everybody says: "It isn't as much fun as last year" . . . and adds, "It must be the awful tragedy in Europe. It must be the war."

It must be.

That attitude on the part of Henry annoyed some important Republicans whom he might have won to his side. They could not accept the reasonableness of Henry's demand that he be drafted and that Hell, the man who led the ticket to its first success after a decade of fame in Wisconsin, must be repudiated.

There are many Republicans who feel that if Henry had made clear that he would be willing to compete with Hell in the open primary, the party would have remained neutral, and the pro-Hell endorsement introduced at the convention would not have been adopted.

UNDIPLOMATIC

A second contributing cause to Henry's defeat lies in his selection of the wrong men to promote his candidacy, men whom many ranking Republican politicians consider as unstarred, and whose practical experience in managing campaigns is extremely limited. Of course, Henry can explain them by saying that his only workers were volunteers.

In fact it is clear that he was in dead earnest about getting the nomination from Hell, whatever attitude he gave to the public.

Considered in the light of Henry's future position in Republican politics, he and his managers also disregarded some sound advice—according to intelligent and sincere Republicans—when he failed to recognize the drift of events at the convention and to deal with them accordingly.

It was clear to everybody at Green Bay the first day of the meeting that Hell had the convention tightly under control. Had Henry then capitulated, announced to the convention that in the interests of party peace he would withdraw and eliminate the contest, the Republicans would have been grateful.

Henry is a young man, and essentially a man with a strong and grateful following among Republicans. That action would have put him into the lead position for 1942. Now it probably is too late.

Just a Step
Behind the News

By Dave Boone

The simple country leans so far backward in the matter of free speech that it not only encourages enemies to pop off, but insists upon radio glorification of all crackpots, fifth columnists and "reds." It is like letting a barber cut your throat on the ground you should do nothing to discourage a shave or a haircut.

The Communist convention and speech of Earl Browder, a man under court conviction for un-American acts, was carried over the air by some of the biggest stations. The party's hook-up with Russia, and through it, with the nazis is well known, and Mr. Browder denounced the whole defense plan over a coast to coast hook-up. The radio chains had to do it. It's a federal law, believe it or not.

Freedom of speech must be protected and preserved, but making it compulsory to provide mikes, amplifiers, proper acoustics and hook-ups is just plain crazy at a time like this.

OUR OWN MAGINOT LINE

Under the
CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Robert K. Henry, back behind his desk in his Jefferson bank job, is probably a disappointed man today. His candidacy for the governorship was spurned by the Republican state convention.

Henry's boom which appeared to grow with each month during the last two years collapsed like a balloon at the prick of a pin when the officially elected representatives of the Republican party met at Green Bay and instead of recognizing his service to the party and his assistance in its victory in 1938, completely and effectively ignored him.

There are many reasons for the fact that politicians and observers alike were surprised at the overwhelming victory of Heil over Henry at the convention. Paramount, probably, is the fact that the average Republican politician is anxious to keep the party undivided this year, certain that only their own division can keep them from completing the election victories they began two years ago.

But other factors of importance were those for which Henry was responsible.

WRONG MEN

Until the last few days before the annual convention, Henry studiously cultivated an attitude of indifference toward his candidacy. He took the attitude that if the Republican party wanted him, it would have to draft him, and pledge that he would have the undivided support of the organization through a convention endorsement. Yet he was eager to run, eager to displace Heil, as the bundles of literature distributed on the convention floor in his behalf showed.

That attitude on the part of Henry annoyed some important Republicans whom he might have won to his side. They could not accept the reasonableness of Henry's demand that he be drafted and that Hell, the man who led the ticket to its first success after a decade of fame in Wisconsin, must be repudiated.

There are many Republicans who feel that if Henry had made clear that he would be willing to compete with Hell in the open primary, the party would have remained neutral, and the pro-Hell endorsement introduced at the convention would not have been adopted.

UNDIPLOMATIC

A second contributing cause to Henry's defeat lies in his selection of the wrong men to promote his candidacy, men whom many ranking Republican politicians consider as unstarred, and whose practical experience in managing campaigns is extremely limited. Of course, Henry can explain them by saying that his only workers were volunteers.

In fact it is clear that he was in dead earnest about getting the nomination from Hell, whatever attitude he gave to the public.

Considered in the light of Henry's future position in Republican politics, he and his managers also disregarded some sound advice—according to intelligent and sincere Republicans—when he failed to recognize the drift of events at the convention and to deal with them accordingly.

It was clear to everybody at Green Bay the first day of the meeting that Hell had the convention tightly under control. Had Henry then capitulated, announced to the convention that in the interests of party peace he would withdraw and eliminate the contest, the Republicans would have been grateful.

Henry is a young man, and essentially a man with a strong and grateful following among Republicans. That action would have put him into the lead position for 1942. Now it probably is too late.

Council Facing Heavy Calendar Of Work Tonight

Reports are Expected From Mayor, Board Of Public Works

Kaukauna — Aldermen are in for a busy evening as the council holds its June meeting at 7 o'clock tonight at the municipal building.

Many matters have been laid over from the last session. Mayor William J. Gantter has promised to have something important tonight. At the May 21 session he said "at the next meeting I'll have something to report of great interest and importance to the city of Kaukauna, unless I'm delayed by correspondence."

The board of public works is expected to report any progress made in carrying out the garbage disposal plan adopted by the council recently. It was intended to get a truck from the power project, buy a body and operate the vehicle as a municipal undertaking with relief labor. Thus it was estimated garbage could be collected from $2-334 per year.

The council adopted this plan over several offers from private persons. It was emphasized the plan is merely an experiment.

Report on Taverns

Alderman George Luebke, chairman of the license committee, told the council at its last session that his committee and the city attorney would confer to determine if local taverns were violating any laws. Mrs. Anton Servaes charged at a council meeting that at least one Kaukauna tavern was operating illegally.

An ordinance providing for the paving of Desnoyer street may be presented. The island street paving job already has been approved. The utility will report on a request for a street light at the intersection of Green street and Highway 41. Recommendations of the fire and police commission, which met last night, will be presented.

Kappells Win in 4 Extra Innings

Score 5 to 4 Victory Over Machines in City League Opener

Kaukauna — It took four extra innings for Kappell Tavern to defeat Kaukauna Machine Corporation, 5 to 4, as the city league opened its season last night before a large crowd. Tonight Haas Hardware and Hakbarth Owl teams meet at 5:45 on the library diamond.

Bill Alger pitched all the way for the winners, allowing 10 hits and striking out nine. Sherman Powers limited the victors to seven safeties and set ten batters down through strikeouts.

Sensational fielding by the Machines carried them through the ninth inning, with a 2-all tie existing since the fourth. Kappell led off for the victors with a base on balls and went to third on Carl Schuler's double. Alger fled to Steger in right, and a perfect peg to the plate nipped Kappell coming home. Schuler taking third. Schuler scored when King muffed a ground ball Junior Matens tripled, sending W. Alger home, but was out himself at home on the relay from centerfield.

The Machines came back with two in their half, on singles by Steger, Ezra, R. King and Balgie's error. Vils singled to begin Kappell's eleven, and Balgie walked, both runners advancing on a passed ball. Vils tried to score on Kappell's fly to DeBruin, but was thrown out at the plate. Schuler's triple plated Balgie with the winning run. Bloch advanced to third in the Machines' half on a single and two errors but R. King's fly ended the game.

Congress Showing Awareness of U. S. Defense Problem

Expansion of Air Forces Getting Most Attention at Present

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Although there are many points of criticism leveled at the inadequacy of America's defenses, it must be noted that congress is showing an awareness of the problem which for peacetime precedents is unparalleled.

The congress and the executive departments are moving almost as rapidly as if the United States were in a state of war. Consideration is beginning to be given to possible invasions of South America by nazi influences, possible misuse of bases in North American waters in the vicinity of islands new held by European governments and to the thousand and one diplomatic and military problems which must be faced as a precautionary measure now, or as a war measure later if America is forced into the fray.

The obvious fact that America's production machine needs a speed-up is fully understood by the business and industrial leaders. The government here is finding pressure on this point from the army and navy. Very soon a much more definite governmental relationship to the priority of war needs over peacetime needs may have to be established.

For the moment, the expansion of our air forces has received the most attention. Talk of putting the automotive industry into the business of making airplane engines is still talk. What is really needed is the multiplication of the existing aircraft facilities in companies that have been building engines and planes. The auto companies can tool over for the building of engines on a quantity basis in about a year, and this should be done for reserve purposes, but anything that disturbs the aircraft industry now or diverts its attention may slow up rather than accelerate the process by which airplane bombers become available either for our own use or the allied needs.

Non-Partisan Action

Congress has shown a disposition to make appropriations and to grant authority to executive agencies for defense purposes as soon as a proposal is made which can be recognized as really for defense purposes, it is acted upon non-partisanly.

The request of the president that he be granted power to mobilize the national guard during the time congress is not in session if the emergency requires it has stirred up some opposition because it is related to the question of whether congress should adjourn at all. If the national guard is to be called out, it means that thousands of men will leave their jobs and it will involve a dislocation in business and industry and perhaps among skilled workers' groups just to call out the guard on the theory that more training is necessary, or to replace in domestic protection the units of the regular army which already are engaged in duty at the canal zone or in Hawaii or in coastal defenses is to raise problems of a far-reaching nature. There are some here who believe America may be in the war before the end of this year or the spring of next year. This is on the assumption that the allies may be able to hold out and that help from America can be decisive next year.

National Guard

But if America is likely to be caught in the meshes of war so soon, the military experts would argue that this summer the national guard ought to be on active duty. Who can guess what the future holds in store? That is the crux of the difficulty. Thus far, wishful thinking on behalf of the allied cause has only served to defer America's preparedness. If anybody in the army and navy could have foreseen what has happened in less than a month this year, he would have recommended the building up of our defenses on a vastly more intensive basis than ever before.

2 of Every 3 Americans Fear Attack if Germany Wins War

By Institute of Public Opinion Princeton, N. J.—America's reaction to the war in Europe—as revealed in a nation-wide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion—continues to be influenced by the belief that if Germany should defeat England and France she will sooner or later attack the United States.

Whether this fear of a German attempt to dominate the United States is justified or not is a matter about which military and civilian experts disagree. But the fact remains that the fear is shared by approximately two Americans in every three, and is undoubtedly a factor in the desire for swift enlargement of the country's national defenses, as well as a factor in the American desire to give every help "short of war" to the Allies.

"If Germany should defeat England and France in the present war," the Institute asked voters throughout the United States, "do you think Germany would start a war against the United States sooner or later?"

The answers were—
BELIEVE GERMANY WOULD ATTACK U. S. 65%
BELIEVE GERMANY WOULD NOT ATTACK U. S. 35%

Only one person in ten, on the average, said he had no opinion on the question.

German official sources, including Chancellor Hitler himself, have ridiculed the notion that Germany intends to attack the United States. In a speech delivered before the Reichstag in January, 1939, Hitler compared the idea with the notion that Germany would invade the moon. Nevertheless a belief that Germany entertains the notion of world-wide dominion has persisted in American minds for many months, increasing rather than diminishing with the course of events in Europe.

The trend of opinion on the question, as revealed in successive Institute tests, has been—

Germany Attack U. S. Believe Believe
February 1939 Yes No
(Before War) 62% 38%
Sept. 1939 63 37
TODAY 65 35

Interestingly enough the present survey shows far greater apprehension of Germany's intentions among southerners, 82 per cent of those interviewed saying they would anticipate a German attack, sooner or later, if the allies are defeated. The sectional vote is—

Germany Attack U. S. Believe Believe
Yes No

New Eng.	64%	36%
Mid-Atlantic	61	39
East Central	61	39
West Central	61	39
South	82	18
West	62	38

LITTLE SPITFIRE

By Jean Randall

some pen and ink sketches over which he hastily placed a blotter when he recognized his caller.

"Hugh, I've got some news for you."

He looked at her with something of Adelaide's vagueness. It was plain that his mind had been far away from the Street.

"It's about—Linda."

His head jerked up, his eyes grew stern.

"Look here, little Brenda Burnham," he said levelly. "You're a nice child, and I've liked having you drop in. But don't overstep your privileges. In other words, I'm finished with a charming smile, 'mind your own business, darling!'"

Her small jaw tightened. "I will of course, if you insist. But I'm quite sure that you don't know what I've come to tell you, and that you ought to know it. I paid you the compliment of believing you would enjoy being treated as an adult; as a responsible adult," she finished.

He took out a cigarette and lighted it with hands not quite steady.

"Confound you, Brenda! Must you come here raking over old coals, stirring the ashes of—of my marriage? There's nothing I need to know about Linda. She's perfectly able to look after herself."

And then he added in a panicky voice: "She's not ill? You haven't come to tell me that she's ill?"

Brenda drifted toward the door. Not that I know of—though it's likely she will be, under the circumstances."

He crossed the studio in five strides, gripped her arm until she winced.

"What do you know about Linda? Tell me!"

"But I thought there was nothing you needed to know about her; I thought you wanted me to mind my own business."

He smiled wryly. "It doesn't seem to me that you have minded it—exactly. Even for a Burnham you seem to have a finger in a good many pies on The Street. Sit down!"

"You command," and say what you came to say."

She sank obediently upon the couch. "You remember you asked me a while back if I'd written anyone about you? And I said I had—one or two persons? Well, I had an answer this morning to one of those letters. It's from a friend of mine in New York. She knows—your wife; she knows Linda."

"Go on," he bade her impatiently.

"She's clerking in a bargain basement, Hugh. She's living in a down-at-the-heels room in a non-distinguished house."

A Bad Mistake

"Linda!" His eyes darkened and his face grew ashen. Then he laughed. "You've been misinformed, Brenda. I pay five hundred dollars into Linda's bank on the first of every month. She could live comfortably on that. Aside from that, you don't know Linda. Luxury is an absolute necessity to her. I honestly believe she'd die if she—did!"

She looked at him stupidly. Such a clever artist, and so pitifully such women were concerned.

"Heavens above!" You'd simply drive her away from her job, from her room. How long has she—been away?"

"Nineteen months and ten days," he said.

Brenda drew her own conclusions from this prompt answer.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — Well, it's come more quickly than I expected! For months, I've warned Hollywood producers against the peril of anti-Nazi films. I've said:

(1) That the screen is no place for propaganda likely to produce hatred of other nations.

(2) That trying to guess war trends and produce films accordingly is dangerous.

(3) That producers were gambling too heavily on anti-this and anti-that pictures, that the only propaganda we should have in theatres is pro-America—and PLENTY of that!

Foolishly (I think) several studios went right ahead making anti-Nazi films. Seven such pictures are either in the cutting rooms or in front of cameras today. What will happen to them in the event of a German victory abroad?

Quoting VARIETY, the industry's leading trade journal, under the heading "Hollywood Ponders Fate of Seven Anti-Nazi Pix," the paper states: "All (of the pictures) contain slaps at Hitler and most of them have already drawn loud protests from the German embassy in Washington... Belief is strong in some circles that Uncle Sam will crack down on American distribution of any films objectionable to Hitler."

Studios have tied up approximately $7,000,000 in these productions. There's a chance all this money may be lost. Which forcibly brings home my repeated warnings that if the movie industry would cease venting personal feelings on the screen—studios, theatres and public would benefit.

aid from the British and French, although the British admiral, Sir Roger Keyes, as liaison officer, was with him and saw the Belgian army's plight, and seeing that 500,000 Belgian civilians were mingled with his troops and threatened with destruction, had to decide between the welfare of his people and considerations of prestige.

According to Leopold's friend, Hubert Pierlot, premier of Belgium, and other cabinet members urged the king to flee with them when they saw the helplessness of the Belgian position.

Leopold proudly replied that "regardless of what my fate may be, I shall stay with my Belgian army. Regardless of what may happen to my Belgian people, I shall go back to them."

Thereupon the cabinet members, according to this friend, fled to a safe place (Paris) and from there "threw mud at their sovereign after taking the Belgian treasury with them."

(The Belgian cabinet and parliament in exile "disowned" Leopold.)

France Decides Against Attacks On German Towns

German bombings, and that if the Germans "ever deliberately attack" an open city the French will feel free to strike back in kind.

Shortly before the air ministry acknowledged the damage to military objectives the scarred capital was rocked anew by the boom of anti-aircraft guns going into action to drive off German planes which appeared over the suburbs at about 9 a. m. (2 a. m. C.S.T.).

No bombs were dropped, but residents were kept in a state of anxiety by the explosion of several time bombs loosed in yesterday's raid. There were no immediate reports of additional casualties from these blasts.

The situation on the war front was described by the high command as quiet on all sectors except at Dunkerque, where the evacuation of the allied rear guard was said to be proceeding "despite ever increasing difficulties." (German sources claimed Nazi troops had entered Dunkerque.)

Expect New Drive

The possibility that the inactivity along the Somme-Aisne front was only the lull before the storm was indicated, however, by reports of German troop concentrations behind their lines in northern France.

The air ministry said it was unable, for military reasons, to give any details on the facilities damaged in the Paris area during yesterday's bombing. The official count on the number of German planes shot down remained at 17.

War ministry spokesmen said the German pilots "seemed" to concentrate on military objectives, but declared the bombs were dropped in "haphazard fashion" and there was unofficial talk of reprisals for the resulting civilian casualties.

Earlier Warning

"The Germans," it was announced over Paris Mondial, the government radio station, "must assume full responsibility for the bombing of helpless civilians." Previously it was announced over the London radio that "it is to be expected the German action will not remain unanswered and German towns will have to bear the consequences."

The German bombers, unofficially estimated to number 20, established a new front in the war. This was the front of civil life—where schools, hospitals, cottages, apartments and factories were struck and blown apart.

(In Berlin German officials quarters denied that German raiders had bombed Paris homes. They said airports were the only targets and the German presumption was that the damage in Paris itself was due to French anti-aircraft fire.)

Maps show the special vulnerability of Paris to air attack.

The fighting on the Aisne and Somme is only 65 miles away, whereas Berlin by contrast, as more than 400 miles from the nearest battle zone. At the speed at which modern bombers travel, Paris is perhaps only a few minutes away from the nearest German airfield.

After the sudden air raid in broad daylight yesterday dead and wounded were removed from the wreckage of six buildings in Paris and 91 in the outskirts. Many buildings not blasted apart were set afire by incendiary bombs.

Careless Driving Ups Accident Toll

Honkamp Cites Increases In Traffic Deaths Before Lions Club

The majority of drivers involved in accidents are committing traffic violations at the time, Elmer R. Honkamp said in a talk before the Appleton Lions club yesterday at its noon meeting in the Conway hotel.

Honkamp, who pointed out that traffic fatalities jumped from 29,451 in 1932 to 39,700 in 1937—a gain of 10,000 in five years—said that law enforcement authorities each year are becoming more watchful of and severe with reckless drivers. There were 27 prosecutions in Outagamie county in 1938, Honkamp related, and in the following year, 71.

He told the club that out of 9,727 serious accidents in Wisconsin during 1938, 6,189 drivers were ignoring traffic rules when the crashes occurred.

The Wisconsin death toll for April of this year was the highest for any month, Honkamp said. There were 53 fatalities.

During April, there were 614 accidents and 597 people injured in Wisconsin, compared with last April's figures of 515 accidents and 364 injured.

Swimming Offers Pupils Both Fun and Healthful Exercise

Youngsters who attend the Post-Crescent-Y. M. C. A. Learn To Swim school opening June 10 at the "Y" will be engaging in one of the most healthful of all sports.

By learning to handle themselves in the water, the pupils will not only enjoy a valuable experience but will begin participation in a sport that for sheer fun and body-building qualities is unexcelled.

When the classes are over and they have received their diploma, they will have the satisfaction of having shown their parents and their friends how they can swim "without touching" bottom.

And they can continue this fun in Wisconsin's lakes, rivers, and pools for years to come. Swimming is a sport that all ages can enjoy. Ability at this sport is both a safeguard against emergencies that may arise on the water and a guarantee of refreshing and healthful hours during the swimming season.

Youngsters in Appleton and vicinity who want to attend the school should fill out the blanks appearing in the Post-Crescent and either mail or deliver them to the Y. M. C. A. There will be four expert instructors for the class, two men and two women.

Safety is the first thought of these teachers, who are careful to first acquaint their pupils with "the feel of water" before asking them to begin the actual process of learning to swim.

Alfonsi Will Run For Governorship

Announces His Candidacy For Progressive Nomination in Race

Pence, Wis. —(AP)— Assemblyman Paul R. Alfonsi announced today that he is a candidate for the Progressive nomination for governor. Alfonsi, who represents Iron and Vilas counties in the legislature, was speaker of the house in 1937.

"The lack of direction and program; the failure to recognize party pledges as binding contracts and the utter disregard for legislation beneficial to the majority of our citizens on the part of the present Republican administration is a serious threat to the principles and ideals of forward looking and progressive Wisconsin," Alfonsi declared.

"As evidence of my attitude and stand with respect to the issues of farm, labor, education, social security, taxation and small business I refer you to my record in the legislature for the last eight years. I am anxious and desirous to conduct my campaign purely on issues and pledges myself to refrain from indulging in personalities."

Standards on Cabbage, Hay to be Considered

A hearing to consider standards for cabbage and hay will be conducted by the department of agriculture at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the courthouse.

Several years ago the United States standards for cabbage and hay, which were in effect at that time, were adopted as the official standards to be used in Wisconsin. Since that time, the United States standards have been amended, but the amended standards have not been adopted in the state.

Judge Scheller Will Speak Before Bankers

Judge A. M. Scheller, Waupaca county judge, will address the Outagamie County Bankers association at a 6:30 dinner Thursday evening at the Hotel Fremont. Officers will be elected and annual business will be considered.

Prices of Wheat

Break but Rally To Reduce Losses

Crop Estimates are More Optimistic Than Anticipated

Chicago—Wheat prices broke as much as 15 cents a bushel today under the weight of private crop estimates, which were more optimistic than anticipated, and the unsettled European situation.

Trade was slow, with prices sagging from the start. A rally about the middle of the session pulled wheat up a cent. A spurt in United States Steel on the "big board" and some buying by traders short of wheat caused the advance which later was lost.

Near the close, however, prices rallied again. There appeared to be no interest in the market.

Receipts were: wheat one car, corn 24, oats one.

Wheat closed 1-1/2 lower than yesterday's finish, July 81-1/2, September 81-1/2, and corn was unchanged to 1 cent down, oats unchanged to 1/2 lower, and soy beans unchanged.

Material Aid to Allies Urged in Rotary Club Talk

Future of United States Depends on War Outcome, Haseltine Says

New London—Material aid to the allies, as much as and as fast as America can produce, was urged by Colonel W. E. Haseltine of Ripon, Wis., in a discussion of "peace for America" before the New London Rotary club at the Elwood hotel Monday noon.

An army engineer in France attached to the general staff during the last war and a member of the reserves since, Colonel Haseltine spoke freely as a private citizen. He worked for the American mission to negotiate peace at the Versailles peace conference and has visited Europe several times since to study peace moves.

"The entire future of the United States depends on the outcome of the present conflict and it can be nothing but an unpleasant outlook if the nazis are victorious. The success of the Allies is vital to the future defense, security and prosperity of our country," he declared.

He summed up the American situation in an event of German victory with a quotation from a recent article by Walter Lippmann, pointing out that the American people would find themselves isolated and surrounded in a world of victorious aggressor states, leaving following generations with the awful necessity of living in a constant state of conscription and mobilization and a perpetual imminence of war.

Haven't Enough Time

"Even with the gigantic defense appropriations of the government now under way, we could never build up a navy, air superiority and a continental army faster than the victorious aggressors could take over the strategic outposts of our defensive system," he warned.

"In the event of a Nazi victory," the speaker quoted Lippmann, "the British and French naval powers would not be available to join the United States fleet as they would be taken as ransom by the victors to spare the lives of the people who paid for and built them, unless the United States gives its wholehearted support to them now."

"We should give the allies war materials now as fast as we can to assure the defeat of the invaders," Haseltine demanded. "Whether the Allies can pay for them, now, later, or never, is immaterial if the Hitlerian forces can be stopped."

Protect Outposts

He urged his listeners to pass these sentiments on to their senators and representatives in Washington. "We must look to the safety of our borders and see also that Germany, Italy, Russia or Japan do not obtain, by conquest or otherwise, not only bases in South and Central America but Greenland, Bermuda, Trinidad and Galapagos, to mention only a few vulnerable spots."

"One of the greatest services you could do your country now is to tell your congressman and senators plainly that spending for pork barrel river and harbor works, useless power and reclamation projects, farm subsidies and parity payments, wasteful PWA schemes, and so forth, must stop, and that you are going to watch and see that they vote to stop it."

"If we are going to spend billions for defense, we can't do it out of a bankrupt treasury and a taxed-to-death industry."

"We must also prepare spiritually and emotionally as well as materially," he went on. "No nation can prepare for survival on a 40-hour week and an emphasis on the 'more abundant life' against those nations whose slogan is discipline and self-effacement. We have been pursuing false gods in this country in our insistence that work is an evil. This is the softening and corrupting doctrine that spelled the doom of ancient Babylon, Greece and Rome, and unless we recognize this and realize that man must work and struggle and become strong and virile by overcoming obstacles and hardships, we shall go down in the end before the peoples who, voluntarily or otherwise, do make those sacrifices."

Warnings Unheeded
"Warnings of our military unpreparedness and defense weaknesses have gone unheeded for years," he stated "while congress has been too concerned with social uplift, the standard of living, and maximum hours, and the building of political fences which these involve. I cannot but believe," he said, "that the president knew long ago that we ought to prepare, but did not dare to tell the true extent either to congress or direct to the people, because, first, he realized he probably would not be believed and second, such a statement would have ruined his political future."

"The price of peace has gone up alarmingly the last year and the threat against which we fought 23 years ago, what Germany stands for, has increased ten times more today. Again German victory constitutes a mortal threat to America."

and the peace of the world so essential to our own.

"I, for one, would not fight Europe's battles anywhere," he stated, "but I would fight our own battles wherever the battlefield might be, and I would definitely rather have that battlefield somewhere else than on American soil."

In speaking of the cause of the present war, one of the greatest tragedies of history largely responsible for it, in his opinion, was America's desertion of the League of Nations after taking such a prominent part in the establishment of peace.

"If any nation had a right to complain of the Treaty of Versailles, it was poor dismembered Austria, not Germany," he claimed. "The chief fault of the treaty is that it never was enforced as to Germany."

Recalling personal interviews in Germany he said that Germans themselves felt the terms were fair, fairer than a victorious Germany would have imposed, but that the victims were aroused to self-pity by the British and American view that they had been badly treated. The speaker pointed out that during the last 20 years Britain has always aided and aided in with Germany, fearing danger to world peace by a powerful France, until finally the German machine of revenge had gotten out of hand.

He urged his listeners to pass these sentiments on to their senators and representatives in Washington. "We must look to the safety of our borders and see also that Germany, Italy, Russia or Japan do not obtain, by conquest or otherwise, not only bases in South and Central America but Greenland, Bermuda, Trinidad and Galapagos, to mention only a few vulnerable spots."

Louisville Conclave Seen as Challenge for Union Cleanup

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The International Union of Stagehands and Moving Picture Employees, which is a vicious racket preying on rank and file American workers, began its convention in Louisville on Monday. This union is controlled by elements of the new Capone mob or syndicate of Chicago criminals. It is a disgrace to the labor movement and a reproach to the American system of government which, by indirect but irresistible government pressure, compels decent citizens to submit to its brutal and predatory rule.

The president of this racket is George E. Browne of Chicago, whose voting power, derived from the large number of members, gives him important influence in the American Federation of Labor and a place on the executive council of that organization. Browne gets $20,000 a year and allowances. He is an associate of criminals of the most dangerous and vicious type and not only associates with such vermin, but appoints them to positions of great power. Helpless under this power, the rank and file are compelled to pay high dues, amounting in some crafts to a 10 per cent income tax on their gross earnings, incredible and prohibitive amount of $3,000. Officers of sub-unions or locals have established private rackets by which they have compelled owners of movie theaters to buy equipment and services from companies in which they were financially interested.

Officers of sub-unions also have established a licensing system whereby ostensibly free American workmen have been compelled to pay heavily for work permits, but have still been excluded from union membership, which would give them a theoretical and illusory right to vote. Men in this sub-human, slave category have been compelled to work for nothing when their families needed wages, and turn over their pay to the racketeers in command. Decent American citizens with every moral right to hold themselves above the most casual contact with a man of Browne's associations have been harassed from job to job and from town to town and compelled to live furtively and work under false names, like fugitive criminals, in order to sneak a few days or weeks of employment at their legitimate occupations.

Browne Will Take No Action Against Bioff

First vice president under Browne is John P. Nick, a racketeer whose oppression and extortion provoked a rank and file rebellion in a St. Louis local and gave rise to the celebrated Post-Dispatch contempt case. Like Browne, he runs with thugs.

Browne announced last Thursday that no action was contemplated by the union against Willie Bioff, his personal appointee to the post of international representative, a non-elective office of tremendous power, who is now in jail in Chicago belatedly serving an old sentence for sharing the earnings of a prostitute.

"The only interest I have in Bioff is how ably he serves the union," Browne said.

The actual reason why Browne contemplates no action against Bioff is that Bioff, a common Chicago gorilla, who served in the lower ranks of the old Capone-Nitti hooch and prostitution enterprises, is the real boss of the union, with power should deny that he knew it, then, however, that would be immaterial, for he does know it now and still he "contemplates no action" against him.

There's the Matter of that $100,000

As to the question of how ably Bioff serves the union, the fact is that Bioff accepted $100,000 from Joseph Schenck, who represented the Hollywood employers in labor negotiations. Schenck admits that he conveyed the money to Bioff, using an intermediary for purposes of concealment, but says the transaction was a forced loan and insists that Bioff returned the $100,000. The government has indicted Bioff for failure to declare the $100,000 as income and pay the tax on it. Schenck also admits that he "put Bioff in the market" and another incident which indicates how faithfully Browne's personal representative served the union was a de luxe cruise to South America on the French liner Normandie by Bioff and his wife on tickets which cost $3,700 and were paid for by an employer with whom Bioff conducted negotiations on behalf of the union. Schenck takes the position that Bioff used his union power to extort his favors. This is a plausible idea, considering Bioff's criminal character and the economic vulnerability of the employers whom Schenck represented.

The Louisville convention of this audacious underworld racket is a conspicuous challenge to the national leadership of the A. F. of L. To drive out some of the rats who have invaded the labor movement and whose sponsor has the effrontery to say that he "contemplates no action" against the vilest of them.

of death over Browne. If Browne were to attempt to throw out Bioff or Nick Circella, a stickup man who is another of his appointees, he probably would be killed.

Incidentally, Browne knew Bioff's character when he appointed him dictator over the Hollywood studio trades and the theater projectionists of the entire country. If he should deny that he knew it, then, however, that would be immaterial, for he does know it now and still he "contemplates no action" against him.

Officers of sub-unions or locals have established private rackets by which they have compelled owners of movie theaters to buy equipment and services from companies in which they were financially interested.

Officers of sub-unions also have established a licensing system whereby ostensibly free American workmen have been compelled to pay heavily for work permits, but have still been excluded from union membership, which would give them a theoretical and illusory right to vote. Men in this sub-human, slave category have been compelled to work for nothing when their families needed wages, and turn over their pay to the racketeers in command. Decent American citizens with every moral right to hold themselves above the most casual contact with a man of Browne's associations have been harassed from job to job and from town to town and compelled to live furtively and work under false names, like fugitive criminals, in order to sneak a few days or weeks of employment at their legitimate occupations.

Browne Will Take No Action Against Bioff

First vice president under Browne is John P. Nick, a racketeer whose oppression and extortion provoked a rank and file rebellion in a St. Louis local and gave rise to the celebrated Post-Dispatch contempt case. Like Browne, he runs with thugs.

Browne announced last Thursday that no action was contemplated by the union against Willie Bioff, his personal appointee to the post of international representative, a non-elective office of tremendous power, who is now in jail in Chicago belatedly serving an old sentence for sharing the earnings of a prostitute.

"The only interest I have in Bioff is how ably he serves the union," Browne said.

The actual reason why Browne contemplates no action against Bioff is that Bioff, a common Chicago gorilla, who served in the lower ranks of the old Capone-Nitti hooch and prostitution enterprises, is the real boss of the union, with power should deny that he knew it, then, however, that would be immaterial, for he does know it now and still he "contemplates no action" against him.

There's the Matter of that $100,000

As to the question of how ably Bioff serves the union, the fact is that Bioff accepted $100,000 from Joseph Schenck, who represented the Hollywood employers in labor negotiations. Schenck admits that he conveyed the money to Bioff, using an intermediary for purposes of concealment, but says the transaction was a forced loan and insists that Bioff returned the $100,000. The government has indicted Bioff for failure to declare the $100,000 as income and pay the tax on it. Schenck also admits that he "put Bioff in the market" and another incident which indicates how faithfully Browne's personal representative served the union was a de luxe cruise to South America on the French liner Normandie by Bioff and his wife on tickets which cost $3,700 and were paid for by an employer with whom Bioff conducted negotiations on behalf of the union. Schenck takes the position that Bioff used his union power to extort his favors. This is a plausible idea, considering Bioff's criminal character and the economic vulnerability of the employers whom Schenck represented.

The Louisville convention of this audacious underworld racket is a conspicuous challenge to the national leadership of the A. F. of L. To drive out some of the rats who have invaded the labor movement and whose sponsor has the effrontery to say that he "contemplates no action" against the vilest of them.

of death over Browne. If Browne were to attempt to throw out Bioff or Nick Circella, a stickup man who is another of his appointees, he probably would be killed.

Incidentally, Browne knew Bioff's character when he appointed him dictator over the Hollywood studio trades and the theater projectionists of the entire country. If he should deny that he knew it, then, however, that would be immaterial, for he does know it now and still he "contemplates no action" against him.
